Macmillan Named Prime Minister

End-Strike Plan Pressed By St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP) — An immediate and temporary settlement of the CPR firemen's strike followed by a government-sponsored inquiry is being passed upon the disputants by the government, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

OVATION

President Eisenhower smiles and waves a hand as he acknowledges the applause today at the end of his state of the union address before a joint session of Congress in Washington. (AP Wirephoto.)

The temporary settlement would be about the same as that reached by the CNR with its firemen last year, the prime minister told the Commons.

The CNR gave its employees staggered wage increases totalling 11 per cent and dropped a proposal similar to the CPR's for reducing the number of firemen in its diesel locomotive operations.

The government's proposal followed along the lines of one made by the Canadian Labor Congress last weekend, except that the inquiry body would be independent while the CLC's idea was that union and management would be represented on it.

FINDINGS NOT BINDING

The prime minister indictted the findings of his proposed board would not be formally binding, though he suggested they would constitute some form of "obligation" on the disputants.

Mr. St. Laurent said he is convinced the only issue now is whether there should be a contractual undertaking to accept the board's findings.

"The objection of the union is that this is tantamount to their acceptance of compulsory arbitration," he said. "The objection of the railway to that not being a contractual undertaking now in that, if they do not make it a contractual undertaking, the dispute could start all over again.

"I have been urging that this is not a realistic view to take. If there is a thorough investigation and report, neither side is going to attempt after that to hold out on an obligation that will have been recommendel after a full investigation by a board that would be constituted in such a way as to have considerable prestige with Canadian public opinion."

NO MEETING YET

CPR President N. R. Crump commented:

"I am told the prime minister . . . described as unrealistic the view that an investigation by a board whose findings would not be binding would leave the diesel issue open to a new strike.

"However, I am glad to note the prime minister's view that no strike would be possible on the diesel issue after the findings of the board of inquiry."

Mr. Crump said that up to early afternoon he had not been in touch either with the government or the striking union.

Frank H. Hall of Montreal, chairman of the general conference committee representing 124,000 employees of the major railways, expressed satisfaction with the government plan.

"If a settlement can be reached along the lines outlined by the prime minister," he said, "I think all concerned should be congratulated. It will be a good thing for all the CPR employees and for the country."

VARIOUS WAYS

Mr. St. Laurent in reply to questions from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, said that the board proposed by the government could be set up in various ways.

It could be constituted under the federal labor code, or there could be a royal commission. He indicated the government does not favor using the federal board of transport commissioners—which regulates the railways—because of the heavy volume of work already before it.

Gordon Report To Hit Power, Wheat Policy

140-Page Document Due Later Today

OTTAWA (CP) — The Gordon commission report, to be unveiled late today, will contain at least two proposals representing radical departures from present government policy.

One deals with wheat, the other with power.

Informants said the 140-page document, forecasting Canada's economic future, definitely will contain a scheme for curbing prairie wheat surpluses by imposing long-range marketing quotas on farmers.

It also is expected to propose that the government relax its present stiff curbs on hydro power exports and encourage increased shipments to the United States to help balance a heavy deficit in U.S. trade.

$50 Million Arts Fund Law Ready

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary stage was set by the government today for introduction of legislation to set up a Canada Council to promote the arts and establish a $50,000,000 fund to aid universities.

There was no discussion in the Commons on a government resolution providing for establishment of the council, which is to be given $50,000,000 to encourage the arts, humanities and social sciences.

The council also will establish a $50,000,000 university capital grants fund out of which monies will be distributed to universities through the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

Legislation embodying the two proposals will be introduced in the Commons later.

NEW PRIME MINISTER ARRIVES AT PALACE

Queen Makes Surprise Appointment

LONDON (Reuters) — Harold Macmillan, staunch defender of Britain's Suez policy, today succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister.

The change in government followed Eden's announcement Wednesday night that he was giving up office because of ill health.

After receiving his new appointment from the Queen at Buckingham Palace, Macmillan ruled out the possibility of an immediate general election.

This was called for Wednesday night by Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, who is on a tour in the United States.

Macmillan's appointment caught Londoners by surprise. Spectators at the Palace thought Butler was arriving. As his car came closer they said, "Oh, it's Macmillan."

Macmillan, chancellor of the exchequer in the Eden cabinet, told reporters at 10 Downing Street when asked if there would be a general election:

"No. When there is one, we will win it."

In May, 1955, six weeks after Eden took office, the Conservative party won a mandate from the electorate for a five-year term.

Politicians interpreted Macmillan's appointment as a sign that the government leadership will continue to defend the Anglo-French armed intervention in Egypt.

It touched off speculation that Macmillan will seek a quick meeting with President Eisenhower, probably in Washington.

Macmillan also faces the job of strengthening Commonwealth bonds strained by Eden's Middle East policies.

Finally, he must cope with an economic crisis heightened by the British-French military intervention in Egypt and the closing of the Suez Canal.

Butler's Future Role Uncertain

Macmillan, who will be 63 next month, has been in active politics for 33 years and has occupied many ministerial posts including that of foreign secretary for a short time before becoming chancellor of the exchequer.

There was no immediate indication whether Macmillan would ask R. A. Butler, one of the most experienced ministers in the Conservative party, to remain in the government.

Butler, whom many politicians overnight had figured as Eden's successor, is lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons.

The choice of Macmillan is a disappointment to the more liberal-minded elements. They regard Butler as a more progressive figure capable of keeping party policy abreast of 20th-century changes in outlook.

There have been strong reports that Butler, inside the cabinet, opposed the Eden policy of armed action in Egypt.

On the other hand politicians have no doubts about the "true blue" orthodox conservatism of Macmillan, product of Eton College, ex-Guards officer and biting critic of socialism.

Today Butler was one of the first to go to Downing Street to congratulate the new prime minister.

He told reporters on the way: "I wish Mr. Macmillan the greatest possible success."

Asked about his own future, he said: "I have no plans as yet."

Of Eden, he said: I "have been deeply anxious over his health, and I hope he makes a complete recovery very soon."

The Queen, before announcing her choice, called in Sir Winston Churchill and the Marquess of Salisbury, two of the ranking Conservative leaders. They likely recommended Macmillan over Butler.

Macmillan will have a free hand in picking the team he wants to run the government.

The bushy-moustached new premier is the son of a Scottish father and an American mother and is head of the publishing house which bears his name.

As treasury chief during the Suez crisis, he increased the gasoline tax, called for tighter economic measures and threatened an income tax increase.

A choice of the Conservative party's right wing, the new premier is married to Lady Dorothy Cavendish, daughter of the ninth Duke of Devonshire. They have four children.

Macmillan, who went to Canada in 1919 as aide-de-camp to the Duke of Devonshire, then governor-general, travelled to Buckingham Palace this afternoon to receive the Queen's designation of him as her first minister.

GUESSED WRONG

About 200 persons pressing against the railings of the palace seemed surprised when Macmillan's car wheeled into the courtyard. A few seeing the car coming toward the palace had shouted: "Here comes Butler." Then as the car came closer they gasped: "Oh, its Macmillan."

Buckingham Palace announced: "The Queen received the Right Hon. Harold Macmillan MP in audience this afternoon and offered him the post of prime minister and first lord of the treasury.

Macmillan showed no emotion as he reached the palace. He sat in the front seat of a small black car with the driver.

"Mr. Macmillan accepted Her Majesty's offer and kissed hands upon his appointment."

Macmillan spent 20 minutes in the palace.

The phrase "kissed hands" referred to the ceremonial acceptance by Macmillan of the Queen's command.

Churchill has called him a "man of fearless intelligence." They worked together against Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler and Mussolini, and Churchill in the Second World War appointed him secretary of the minstry of supply. There he helped build Britain's great war arsenal. Later he was in the colonial ministry as parliamentary undersecretary of state and dealt with the production of raw materials for war.

CONSIDERED RIGHT-WINGER BY LABOR

New British Prime Minister Self-Styled 'Liberal-Tory'

LONDON (CP) — Harold Macmillan is a cartoonist's delight with his sad and drooping eyes and his large grizzled moustache.

He calls himself a "Liberal Tory." The Labor party considers him an extreme right-winger. In the years between the world wars he was a vigorous advocate of social reform.

Macmillan is a product of Eton and Oxford's Balliol College. He knows Latin, Greek and French in addition to his free-flowing and sometimes Churchillian English and has what he calls a "smattering" of other languages.

A Grenadier Guardsman in the First World War, he was wounded three times. Waiting for 12 hours once on a French battlefield for first aid, he passed the time reading a play in Greek.

In the Second World War he was for three years British minister-resident in the Mediterranean theatre.

He was born in 1894. His mother was an American, daughter of J. Carleton Belles of Spencer, Ind.

In 1919 he went to Canada as aide-de-camp to the Duke of Devonshire, then governor-general. The next year he married the duke's daughter, Lady Dorothy Cavendish.

Macmillan then became a director of the publishing firm which bears his family name.

He won his first seat in the House of Commons in 1923, lost it in 1929, then represented his constituency from 1931 onwards.

As wartime minister-resident in the Mediterranean theatre, he was credited with doing much to smooth out jealousies among the French leaders, and establishing good relations with United States forces. He worked with Gen. Eisenhower when the latter commanded allied forces in North Africa.

He has held various posts since the Conservative government came to power in 1951. He was made foreign secretary in April, 1955, and chancellor of the exchequer the following December. His party acclaimed him most when as minister of housing from 1951 to 1954 he put through the government's program of building 300,000 houses a year.

In 1953 he underwent a gall bladder operation from which he made a speedy recovery.

Diehard Conservatives of the old school have always mistrusted him, for he is an intellectual, a political philosopher who has written books on his theories.

IKE WARNS U.S.

Isolation Invites War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that U.S. prosperity is at "an unprecented peak." But, referring to the danger of Communist aggression, he said "a strongly armed imperialistic dictatorship poses a continuing threat" to the free world.

In his State of the Union message, prepared for a joint Senate-House of Representatives session, the president said that "at no time in the history of the republic have circumstances more emphatically underscored the need in all echelons of government, for vision and wisdom and resolution."

Eisenhower said, "America alone and isolated cannot assure even its own security."

He added the United States "must be joined by the capability and resolution of nations that have proved themselves dependable defenders of freedom." Isolation from such nations would invite war.

In the foreign field, Eisenhower said the United States is "willing to enter any reliable agreement which would reverse the trend toward ever more devastating nuclear weapons."

This was the first time Eisenhower has mentioned publicly international control against devastating missiles and satellite devices.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Heavenly Father, this day forgive us our debts even as we forgive our debtors. Forgive our small and deadly tongues, their words of anger and unkindness. Forgive our unbelieving hearts and lack of trust in the promises of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Talk with Eisenhower On Tap for Macmillan?

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials today welcomed the appointment of Harold Macmillan as Britain's new Prime Minister. He is regarded as a friend of the United States who will work for improvement in United States-British relations.

Macmillan probably will be invited to come to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower early in the year.

U.S., U.K. REACTION TO EDEN RESIGNATION
Page 5

Eisenhower had rebuffed efforts by former Prime Minister Eden to visit Washington immediately after the United States-British split over Egypt, but high officials said Macmillan would be made welcome whenever he wants to come.

Macmillan's appointment ends th' mystery. Fer a while there I thought th' Butler done it.

Dulles Opposes Slowdown on Mid-East Plan

Criticizes Efforts of Democrats To Stall Force-for-Peace Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said Wednesday the proposed Democratic substitute for the administration's Middle East program wouldn't do the job.

He said it would fail to grant President Eisenhower "any authority" for the use of armed forces to protect a Middle Eastern state against Communist armed attack.

Dulles made an assault on the "short term" resolution which was passed along by Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem., Tex.) of the House of Representatives as the work of a prominent Democrat Rayburn would not identify.

The secretary's criticism came shortly after Senator W. Kerr Scott (Dem., N.C.) told the Senate that Dulles — whom Scott described as "the champion quick-change artist when it comes to diplomacy"—should resign in the interests of national security.

"If the president expects to keep his country on an even keel in foreign affairs," Scott said, "then he must have a secretary of state who generates confidence instead of confusion."

Scott linked his criticism to President Eisenhower's proposal, pushed by Dulles, that Congress authorize the President to use American armed forces if necessary to block Communist aggression in the Middle East.

The substitute proposal would say this instead: "The United States regards as vital to her interest the preservation of the independence and integrity of the Middle East and, if necessary, will use her armed forces to that end."

Dulles testified before the House foreign affairs committee. Some information on his testimony was given out immediately afterward. Early Wednesday night the state department released its own account.

Dulles said the Democratic proposal "could be interpreted" as designed to establish a United States "protectorate" over the Middle East without regard to the wishes of the countries themselves "and as such it might well be resented in the area."

The Democratic resolution "would not limit" the use of U.S. forces in the Middle East to "defence against armed attack, which under Article 51 of the United Nations charter is the basis for collective self-defence."

COVERS ALL ATTACKS

He said the resolution "seems to call for United States armed action to preserve the integrity of all the Middle East states not merely against a Communist attack but against any external attack." For this reason, Dulles asserted, the resolution—had it been in force—might have required American military intervention "in the fighting which occurred last year." Presumably he referred to the attacks on Egypt by Israel, Britain and France.

The Democratic resolution "would seem to call for military action to overthrow a regime brought into power from without even though no violence were used." Dulles said this raised the question of the conformity of such action with U.S. obligations under the UN charter.

Hanna Entry Plea Rejected By Pickersgill

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill said today he knows of no reason for giving special consideration to an application for entry to Canada from a man marooned aboard a Norwegian freighter currently visiting Vancouver Island.

He referred in the Commons to Christain Hanna, who has spent the last 15 months aboard the freighter Gudveig because no country will accept him as an immigrant.

Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Esquimalt-Saanich) asked why Canada has refused admission to the "unfortunate young man."

Mr. Pickersgill said Hanna is "in no way admissible" under the Immigration Act. At least four or five requirements of the act would have to be set aside to let him in.

Hanna has no known nationality, apparently one of the main reasons no country will allow him entry.

Mr. Pickersgill, without going into detail, said that from the man's past record he thinks "it is very unlikely that he will spend the rest of his life in any one place."

Persons in much worse circumstances than Hanna had been refused admittance to Canada because of requirements in the Immigration Act. Hanna's admittance "can certainly not be justified on any merits that I can see."

2 Years in Jail For Possessing Burglary Tools

Frank Ellis, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to two years in jail after his conviction earlier this week on a charge of possessing housebreaking tools.

He was arrested in the yard of a local bottling works late one night last week, with a screwdriver and gloves on his person. He had climbed a high fence to gain access to the property, police said.

Condition of Dean McKinnon, 1547 Yale, injured when the car in which he was riding turned over on a slippery Saanich street shortly after 8 a.m. today, is good, St. Joseph's Hospital reported at 1 p.m.

Nature of his injury or whether he was driving the car was not available.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS IRREGULARITIES

Insurance Policy on Sculptor Not Security—Auditor-General

OTTAWA (CP) — Auditor-General Watson Sellar has uncovered another crop of irregularities in government accounts but on the whole he finds the books in good order.

The public accounts for the 1955-56 fiscal year were tabled in the Commons Wednesday and they include Mr. Sellar's report, which states at the beginning: "Thousands upon thousands of transactions were reviewed and it is satisfying to be able to report that only a handful require notice to be now taken of them."

Among this handful:

1. The government insured the life of sculptor Frances Loring for $10,000—it paid the $1,126 premium—while she was working on the $50,000 statue of former Conservative Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden, unveiled here Monday. The works department took out the policy under the section calling for sufficient security to be taken by the government until a contract is finished. Mr. Sellar says a life insurance policy is hardly security and that the premium was not deductible from the contract.

2. Six years ago, the defence department decided to instal underground steam distribution systems at 30 camps. Major repairs have since been necessary at 14 of these stations, chiefly because of faulty design. Original contracts at the 14 camps were worth $6,000,000 and estimated cost of repairs came to $1,218,500.

3. In 1954, navy officers, without authorization from the defence production department, encouraged a manufacturer to spend money to develop a boat davit. The defence department later instructed defence production to buy the type of davits developed, but the firm was not the successful bidder. It sought compensation and the government now has offered to pay the firm $34,000, including five-per-cent profit.

4. A civil servant signed an agreement to return to his job after being given leave to attend university. He didn't honor the agreement but was paid $8,000 half salary for his three years at college, was reimbursed his $1,644 contribution to the superannuation account and given $858 in lieu of retirement leave.

IN PARLIAMENT

'Indifference, Inertia', Charged By Diefenbaker

(From Times News Services)

The first day of debate in the parliamentary session has left little doubt the Commons is pointing for an election within a few months.

Opposition leader Diefenbaker charged Wednesday that the government, by reason of its "indifference, inertia and lack of leadership in the face of serious national and international problems," has lost the confidence of the people of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker, making his first major Commons speech as Progressive Conservative leader, put the charge in a motion of non-confidence in the government.

He presented the motion at the end of his speech launching the throne speech debate. It suggests that the following be added to the throne speech read Tuesday by Governor-General Massey: "We respectfully represent that Your Excellency's advisers, by reason of their indifference, inertia and lack of leadership in the face of serious national and international problems and their disregard of the rights of parliament, are not entitled to the confidence of this House and have lost the confidence of the people of Canada."

SEEKS HIGH-LEVEL TALKS

The motion was seconded by Donald Fleming (PC, Toronto, Eglington), who with Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops) was an unsuccessful candidate for the party leadership won by Mr. Diefenbaker last month.

In a wide-ranging speeh, Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated his suggestion that the Canadian government try to arrange a conference in this country of Britain, France and the United States in an attempt to restore the unity disrupted by the British-French armed intervention in Egypt.

He said the government also should make President Eisenhower realize that the conduct of the U.S. in ridding itself of surplus wheat through its give-away program constitutes an "illegal interference" in the marketing of farm products by another country.

"Canada cannot meet this type of unfair competition," he said.

He also charged that the government has followed a policy of "postponement, procrastination and promises" in the CPR firemen's strike. It has been "resolute in irresolution."

ASKS PLAN

"I ask the prime minister: Haven't you got a plan? Is this thing going to continue on and on?"

CCF and Liberal members interjected: "What's your plan?"

Mr. Diefenbaker replied that in the 1950 general rail strike the Progressive Conservative party had indicated its stand and that had been voted down. He was referring to a motion calling for an administrator to take over operation of the CNR and the CPR, then strike-bound, while the companies and striking unions continued negotiations.

He said that if Conservative demands then for improving and modernizing conciliation procedures under the labor code had been implemented, the possibility of future major rail strikes would have been avoided.

Mr. Deifenbaker said the brief reference to the strike in Tuesday's throne speech "calls apparently for a cavalier contemplation of a situation dangerous, critical and crippling in its economic effects."

URGES HEALTH SCHEME

CCF Leader Goldwell was more specific, adding a non-confidence motion criticizing the government for not announcing legislation to establish a national health insurance plan.

Social Credit Leader Low said the government's legislative program announced at Tuesday's session opening is "almost barren of any proposals for relief for the average Canadian."

The four party leaders opened the 10-day throne speech debate which continues today. The session is expected to be a brief one, ending in mid-April for an election generally anticipated in mid-June.

The CPR firemen's strike, now eight days old, was one of the main debating issues.

Mr. St. Laurent said he thinks it would be "just a little bit premature" to employ compulsory measures to end the strike.

Both Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Low proposed getting the CPR back into operation at once, with dispute-settling steps to be taken afterwards. But the CCF leader said those steps should consist of continued company-union negotiations while Mr. Low called for a commission which would hand down a decision binding on both parties.

Youth Killed In Rifle Duel

TORONTO (CP)—Wallace Cooper, 15, wounded in what police called a rifle duel at Rosedale ravine, died early today in hospital.

The young messenger boy, with no known relatives, was found Wednesday by police, lying face down in snow near the Don River with two bullet wounds in his head.

Police said Robert Gore, 16, at whose home the wounded boy was boarding, will be charged with manslaughter.

Empty ammunition boxes, bullet-scarred trees and spent 22-calibre cartridges were found by police at the scene. Two rifles were later recovered from the river.

Police said the youths had stood perhaps 25 yards apart and had taken shots at each other, trying to come as close as possible with each shot.

Yemen Gets $8 Million Czech Arms

CAIRO (AP)—Yemen, embroiled in clashes with Britain along the Aden Protectorate border, has joined the parade of Arab nations getting arms from the Soviet bloc.

A Yemenite source said Wednesday night his country made an arms deal with Czechoslovakia after Western governments refused to supply the weapons.

Another Yemenite source said $8,500,000 worth of the Czech arms already have reached the desert kingdom on the Arabian Peninsula's southwest coast.

The Yemenites claim they need the new arms to oppose British aggression and for internal security. The exact types of the weapons were not disclosed.

CHILD HANGED BY SAFETY DEVICE IN CRIB

SEATTLE (AP)—A 21-month-old child was hanged Wednesday in a screen which had been put over her crib as a safety device.

Mrs. William Holmgren found the body of her daughter, Dennette, hanging outside the crib this morning. The screen "trap-door" had caught her by the throat.

2-Cent a Quart Milk Price Boost Hinges on Union Parley Sunday

A two-cent-a-quart increase in Victoria's milk prices could follow a meeting of 200 truck drivers and plant employees of three Victoria dairies on Sunday.

"We shall not take any move towards increasing prices until we know what the employees want," a leading Victoria milk distributor said today.

"If the employees make similar demands to those of Vancouver employees, however, it is likely we shall have to increase prices here."

In Vancouver, the distributors raised milk prices by two cents a quart to 24 cents after signing an agreement with employees providing for a $30 a month wage boost and the skip-a-day delivery.

Victoria employees will decide what their demands will be at a meeting of the Milk Salesmen and Dairy Employees' Union, local 464, at Victoria Labor Council headquarters, 613 Pandora, next Sunday at 8 p.m.

Said Charles Lewis, chairman of the Victoria sub-local:

"We have to decide whether to ask for a large pay increase and institution of the skip-a-day delivery plan, or a smaller pay boost with the existing six-day delivery schedule."

If the Victoria sub-local favors the skip-a-day delivery plan, it will ask for the same wage boost as Vancouver workers received.

This would give drivers a guaranteed $300 a month, plus commission.

Sir Anthony Resigns

THE POLITICAL CAREER OF Sir Anthony Eden, an outstanding champion of peace and an able minister of the Crown in war, has ended in tragedy.

There can be no doubt that his health has been shattered by more than three decades of splendid service to his country, and by the momentous events of the last two months. But it is equally clear that as a result of the situation which developed from the Suez crisis, Sir Anthony is no longer fitted to serve as the British Prime Minister.

In the first place, his party has been gravely split by his decision to intervene in Egypt, and a large part of the nation, perhaps as much as one-half, is opposed to the policy he applied.

It seemed unlikely that a man who had suffered these serious repercussions could serve as the focal point for reuniting the Conservative Party or the nation. Thus, for unanswerable reasons of domestic politics, a new leader was required in Downing Street.

Secondly, Sir Anthony, whether he was right or wrong in the Suez decisions—and history must be the judge—has seen his position as leader of Britain's foreign affairs hopelessly undermined.

Among the essential attributes of a British Prime Minister is possession of the confidence of all the Commonwealth nations. He must also enjoy the confidence of the United States Government which, whether its policies be right or wrong, remains the most powerful factor in the politics of the free world.

By intervening in Egypt Sir Anthony shook the confidence of the Asiatic members of the Commonwealth and also of Canada. Moreover he quarreled openly with the Government of the United States and deeply incensed President Eisenhower.

No matter what the merits of Sir Anthony's Egyptian policy may have been, all these problems, domestic and international, made it difficult if not impossible for him to remain as leader of the Government.

With his usual patriotism and courage he evidently recognized the facts and sacrificed his career at the call of duty as once before he had done when he disagreed with the British Government's policy in regard to Benito Mussolini.

Although his career has ended unhappily, Sir Anthony Eden's place in history is secure. He contributed greatly to British life over 30 turbulent years of war and peace and the commencement of a new and difficult era in the balance of world power.

In Mr. Harold Macmillan Britain will have a Prime Minister largely unknown to the Commonwealth and the world. He had proved a competent chancellor of the exchequer and had also served briefly as foreign minister, but it remains to be seen if he possesses those qualities of leadership which, after its recent disaster, the Government so urgently requires.

Few men coming to the leadership of the British people have entered their high office under more difficult circumstances. Mr. Macmillan, indeed, faces the gravest task to confront a British prime minister since the war.

It had been expected that the more brilliant Mr. R. A. Butler would have been chosen for the post, but he had damaged himself in the Party by his equivocal stand in the recent crisis. Mr. Macmillan has evidently been considered more likely to accomplish the task of reuniting the party, the country, the Commonwealth and the Atlantic alliance.

The latter constitutes the greatest challenge that confronts him—to restore strength to the alliance of the English-speaking world. Not only the Commonwealth but free men everywhere will hope that he can measure up to it.

The Right to Practise

THE MEDICAL FRATERNITY of Canada has every reason to insist that foreign doctors taking up residence in this country and seeking the right to practise should prove their abilities and capacities before receiving licenses.

That is a reasonable safeguard against the influx of incompetent people into a profession which demands exacting standards.

On the other hand, there appears to be no justification whatever for the stand taken by the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons. After June 30, 1959, it says it will require proof of Canadian or British citizenship before issuing licenses to new-comers.

By all means let the medical authorities of Ontario and other provinces demand proof of an applicant's ability. But how can citizenship establish that? Competent hands, diagnostic faculties and treatment techniques are not limited by nationality. If they were, many of the specialists who have taken courses in such famous centres as Vienna in earlier years would have merely wasted their time.

All the Ontario statement indicates is a desire by members of the profession there to protect themselves from competition from immigrant doctors. The public will wonder why Ontario physicians and surgeons require that protection.

Look what could happen if the decision were maintained: A first class surgeon from some other country—a man who wanted to become a Canadian and to practise here—would have to wait at least five years to get his Canadian citizenship. Should his skills be wasted during that time? Should his hands be turned to ditch-digging while he served out the citizenship period at great loss to himself and also to the country?

Before the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons attempts to enforce any such ruling, its members should re-examine their position of authority and recognize what will happen to the powers given to them should they bar outsiders solely on national lines.

The College has been entrusted with control over the profession for specific reasons. Those reasons do not include the right to set up a barrier against foreigners just because they are foreigners.

Under the guise of establishing and maintaining professional qualifications, the Ontario agency is, in effect, attempting to enforce a national immigration policy of its own. Never, in the transfer of specific authority, was that power extended to the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons. Any attempt to seize it will bring public and parliamentry reaction against the professional group—reaction which could very easily eliminate much of the justifiable authority it now exerts.

A Danger To Be Met

HISTORICALLY, RUSSIA'S urge to extend its influence southward into the Mediterranean basin has been expressed in military terms. Today the urge still exists, but the method of fulfilment has been altered.

Since aggression would result in military retaliation by the West, in all probability producing a world war which the Soviets would not relish any more than the rest of the world, the new tactic is infiltration.

This is carried out through trade and political arrangements, through treaties and general propaganda barrages. The method is enjoying a certain amount of success, the chief reason being that Arab short-term policies and Russian short-term policies are at present in harmony.

They agree on the basic issues of fomenting Arab nationalism, reducing British and French influence to a minimum, nationalizing the Suez canal and nationalising the Middle Eastern oil wells. They are also in agreement in their opposition to Israel.

Russia has kept the Mediterranean pot boiling with arms shipments to Egypt and Syria, followed by the arrival of Soviet experts and technicians to help instruct the local troops. The Arab nations are not communist, but they welcome communist aid. And they appear to be peculiarly susceptible to the familiar Moscow tactics of the Big Lie and the slanted news report.

All this presents a difficult problem for the West. American influence is somewhat higher in the area as a result of the United States stand on the Suez invasion.

But the traditional authority of Britain and France are at an unprecedented low, and even American aid may be looked upon with fears of "imperialist" intentions.

President Nasser provides a focal point for Arab nationalistic sentiments. He also provides a convenient point at which to apply Soviet pressure: the ambitious leader could easily become a Russian tool.

The West might be happy to see Colonel Nasser go, but not if his disappearance was the result of being swallowed up by the Russian bear.

Obviously the situation calls for a positive Western policy, which in the lull following Britain's enforced withdrawal is sadly lacking.

Test Run

A GAMBLE THAT LOST — By B. A. TOBIN

The Stakes Were High

CHANGING the occupant of No. 10 Downing Street in these momentous times will have political repercussions in Britain and diplomatic effects throughout the world. But in the welter of discussion, the weighing of cause and effect, the arguments for and against this action or that, one fact must stand out like a scar on a human cheek—the immense personal tragedy of the man, Arithony Eden.

Tobin

Here was a man who for all of his adult life has championed the cause of world peace. His first fifteen years in public life—and he was first elected to Parliament at the early age of 26—were devoted to an almost ceaseless round of Europe's capitals trying to iron out difficulties which threatened peace.

His hatred of war was often expressed—he had had a first-hand experience of it as a 20-year-old captain in World War One; he lost two brothers in that conflict and a son in World War Two. There was little about modern war: its ominous build-up, its horrible reality and its shattered aftermath, that Anthony Eden did not fully understand.

From its first days until its last, he worked for the League of Nations. He helped to found the United Nations and sought tirelessly to make it effective in the maintenance of world peace.

Surely no man in public life had done more for global security and international amity than Anthony Eden.

Tumbling Down

Yet overnight, almost within the space of a few hours, this whole lifetime structure came toppling. In every quarter of the globe his critics and enemies branded him as a war maker, an aggressor, and pointed to the Suez bombing and invasion to support their contentions.

It must have been difficult for even his close friends to understand this sudden apparent reversal of character. For it was no more than an apparent reversal. Even in the midst of the crisis Eden stood up in the Commons and in a tortured cry reminded the world that "I am a man of peace, I have always been a man of peace."

The startling violence of the sudden move in Suez was a measure of the desperation with which Eden saw the dangers increasing in the Middle East. As long ago as last spring he had told his Russian visitor, Nikita Khrushchev, that Britain would fight if her Middle Eastern oil supply was threatened.

Now he evidently had reason to think that Russia considered this was a bluff and was calling it. It is hard to accept any other reason than fear of terribly imminent danger to Britain's existence as the basis for the Prime Minister's unprecedented move.

Whether or not Russia was really on the verge of a military shift into the Middle East, it is certainly conducting a campaign of slow infiltration that is equally dangerous. And there was the further fear in Britain that Egypt, having seized the vital Suez Canal, might have set an example of contempt for the island kingdom that would lead other Arab states to seize oil wells and pipelines in violation of their treaties.

Who can imagine the inner agony of the man of peace as he weighed all these factors, sought here and here and here for an answer only to decide that military action was the sole avenue left?

What a terrible drama must have been enacted in the man's mind during those tense hours as he laid his personal career, his lifelong striving, his national popularity, on the diplomatic gaming table, hoping to win extended security for his country.

His desperate gamble failed, as was inevitable. The die had been rolled when aggression was something that only the "others" indulged in, when the authority of the United Nations was being jealously guarded by the West, when because of treaties, alliances and obligations, unannounced maverick actions could only be a source of embarrassment, even anger, to friends.

Against the Grain

Above all—and Eden by birth, training and heritage must have known this even in the extremity of his dilemma—his action offended the age-old tradition of his people.

The British just didn't do this sort of thing. They suffered, they waited patiently, they struck only in retaliation, they played "cricket", they lost the battles but won the wars. Military coups were all right for those "foreign Johnnies" perhaps, but . . .

There must have been a sudden surge in every Briton's breast at the first news of the Suez move. When Hitler finally struck in 1939 the feeling was, "Thank God, at last we know where we stand." So, on that fateful October morning, there must have been a rousing thought throughout the country: "They've twisted the lion's tail enough. At last we're showing some spirit!"

But second thought came immediately. What's this? Our bombers attacking a country that hasn't fired first? Our troops invading without-declaring war?

Eden did not lack supporters in the streets, in the fields, in the Government. But driven too hard by his desperate sense of responsibility he had for a fatal moment lost the inner pulse of his countrymen, broken the unwritten tribal code.

Yesterday the bitter fruits of that misjudgment were announced. Sir Anthony left office amid the scorn of his enemies, and, perhaps much harder to bear, the pity of his friends.

British history has produced few greater personal tragedies. After a lifetime of cultivation, the harvest has been lost.

From Our Files

Jan. 10, 1897 — The Salvation Army report for 1896 shows 13,947 meals supplied in Victoria, 4,658 beds were occupied. All these were worked for in the woodyard except in cases where the man was too old.

Jan. 10, 1917—Lieut. F. E. Dorchester, late of the 72nd Highlanders and now commanding the newly-authorized Cyclists' Platoon, will visit Victoria in the near future to sign on recruits for the new unit.

Jan. 10, 1937—Fewer family units drew relief from the city in 1936 than in any year since figures were kept. The monthly average was 848 as against 901 in 1935, says a report from the city relief department.

As Our Readers See It

Children's Toys

Our project to provide toys for underprivileged children at Christmas time was a huge success, and this success was brought about by the help of many public-minded citizens who helped us immensely.

The local press and radio stations publicized our appeal for used toys and Mr. John Gough of the School Board asked all the schools to help. Many firms spent time in specialized repairs and the general public sent in thousands of used toys.

Time did not permit us to repair all toys brought in but those which were left over will be repaired during this year for next Christmas.

To all those people who helped to bring joy to those children we wish to say a very sincere thank you.

Don't Blame the Farmer

I would like to 'say my say' anent that news-item quoting a bakery spokesman in Victoria, commenting on the recent announcement of a one-cent increase for a standard loaf in Vancouver, to the effect that the reflection in your city would be "just a matter of time."

One of the columnists drew attention the other day to the fact that about 15 cents of the cityman's 'Bread Dollar' accrue to the wheat farmer. This certainly supports the point spotlighted in the above news report, indicating that increased costs of flour, sugar, fat, and wages based on a 36-hour work week were blamed for the retail hike in the loaf price.

Now I sincerely hope that the average housewife will try to remember, and be kind enough not to blame the farmer, for adding to the cost of the bread-needs of her family? Nothing has been happening to the price of wheat in recent months. On the contrary, the trend over the past couple of years has been downward—yet, one of the experts assures me that the money value of a bushel of quality wheat would have to increase by not less than 50 cents to "justify a one-cent increase in the loaf."

Automation and the Strike

An illustrated article both shows and gives you "a topical example of automation" at a large new factory opened by the firm of Micafine Ltd., built in the Midlands of England.

Previously 70 people at the plant produced 1,200 tons a year, and now with "automation" the staff of employees is reduced to 15 working in three shifts of five and the plant is now producing 2,000 tons annually.

The problem of the redundant workers was solved by extending at least six months long notice in which to find work elsewhere and a peaceful transition, with the agreement of the trade unions was thus effected. This brings me, sir, to the present strike here at home brought about by the trade unions and CPR Company, and which should not be allowed to continue. I contend that the CPR president, Mr. Crump, deserves all congratulations for his offer to place those men removed from the diesel engines (where they are not required) to other positions with the company, without loss of either time or pay, and he should get full support of the Canadian public for so doing.

The strike is unnecessary and should be called off immediately. Furthermore, I think our trades unions in Canada are big enough to run their own affairs without any help or advice from anybody in the U.S.A.

Operation Pruning

A certain book leads us to believe the power of positive thinking would settle the rail strike! Let us then apply this to the subject matter, encompassed as it is, by that little word, if. If Jack and Jill had not gone up the hill, to fetch their pail of water, Jack wouldn't have broken his crown, nor Jill come tumbling after.

In the case of the strike we are the Jacks and Jills. We've broken our crown of humanity and the strike has come tumbling after. It couldn't do otherwise. When humanity breaks its crown, anything can happen. What was it Robbie Burns said? "Man's inhumanity . . . . . !"

The greatest influence for harmony can be summed up in the phrase, "more or less." Is one man here and one man there—more or less—going to disrupt the whole economy under which we function? Wisdom, deep-dyed and doleful, waits upon the foresight of our being able to co-operate and determine, if (that little word) we can do with one man less here, can we do with one man more somewhere else? We prune one tree to produce another! Is not this a practical viewpoint with which to suggest settlement? Is it not something of a positive nature that might get the wheels turning again? And water back in the pail? And crown humanity anew?

ALAN L. GREIG.
1141 Fort Street.

Safe Driving Crusade

Even when the new year was only seven days old I noted three deaths already registered in B.C. All were pedestrians struck by cars. A three-year-old girl, an RCMP officer (24), and an elderly retired citizen (76). The Jan. 7 issue of the Times had an item captioned, "3,100 Deaths on Highways." That was a 10 per cent increase over the estimated total of 2,800 who died in 1955.

With cars powered up to 280 or so horsepower and speeds attainable well up to and exceeding 100 miles per hour, what else can we anticipate in the year or years ahead.

With our scenic highways, narrow curves and steep grades, British Columbia is the logical place to start a crusade for greater safety to all and the first step should be a substantial reduction in car speeds.

I believe the proper group to present such a request to the federal government would be the Ministerial Association of Victoria, the capital city of B.C.

To me it sounds terrible to hear car-selling agencies also include a life insurance policy as an attractive feature.

H. WYER.
1170 Chapman St.

Labor Council Strike Argument

The Victoria Labor Council wishes to correct wrong statements in the local press that Mr. Druce, the Canadian vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was an American from Portland directing the firemen's strike. Mr. Druce is a Canadian citizen who has never lived in the United States. He was born in New Zealand and has lived in Canada for over 40 years and his home is in Vancouver, B.C.

Further, to know is to understand. Many facts about the current strike on the Canadian Pacific are not known to the public. Labor seeks to make such facts available so as to strengthen understanding of what is at stake.

First, it should be kept in mind that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is a long-established, responsible Union, functioning on this continent for over 83 years. The Brotherhood's current strike on the CPR is the first stoppage by this organization within the memory of the oldest members now living.

Such a record of high responsibility demonstrates that members of this Brotherhood are serious-minded men, deeply conscious of the nation's welfare, who would not lightly take any rash action.

Every peaceable avenue of negotiation was exhausted—a procedure which took 11 months—before the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called a strike on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

How many people know that members of the striking Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen stand ready to operate food trains on the Canadian Pacific to communities isolated by the CPR shutdown?

How many people know it was by decision of the CPR management that all trains are in enforced idleness?

How many people know that the CPR is the only major railroad on this continent which is demanding the right to eliminate firemen aboard diesel locomotives? How many know that the Canadian National withdrew such demand, as did all 140 major railroads in the United States?

How many people know that there are many instances on record where firemen on deisel trains have averted disaster by taking over when the engineer has collapsed at the control?

The President, Jodoin, of the Canadian Labor Congress has attempted to bring the parties together to effect a compromise. Unfortunately, however, his proposals were flatly rejected by the president of the CPR, Mr. Crump.

In view of the fact that every other major railroad on the North American continent recognizes that firemen are necessary, why is Mr. Crump determined to eliminate firemen and enginemen, even at the expense of national disaster?

J. MACKENZIE

The Victoria Labor Council

All for One, One for All

From The New York Times

AT FIRST thought, it might seem unwise to attach too much significance to the remarks of Nikita S. Khrushchev when those remarks are made at the height of a New Year's Eve party with liquid refreshments flowing bountifully. But Khrushchev's praise of Stalin and his assertion that all Communist leaders are "Stalinists" justifies a more serious view.

This is fortified by the fact that Khrushchev's statement came only a few days after the Chinese Communists had hailed Stalin in a major political document. Moreover, on the Soviet scene itself there have been signs of return to Stalinism: the attacks on Yugoslavia which employ Stalinist-type distortions, the crackdown on university students, the recent bitter attacks on the United States.

What was basic in Khrushchev's mind seems suggested by his assertion, "Stalin made mistakes but we should share responsibility for those mistakes because we were associated with him."

Anyone who has read the available text of Khrushchev's attack on Stalin and the subsequent Soviet anti-Stalin material knows that it is precisely this fact of the present rulers' co-responsibility with Stalin which has been rejected in the whole anti-Stalin publicity. Until now the anti-Stalin campaign has been a "cult of personality" in reverse—that is, an attempt to blame him and him alone.

In the wake of Tiflis, Poznan and Budapest it seems likely that Khrushchev and his colleagues have realized that the forces they unleashed with the anti-Stalin campaign threaten the Communist dictatorship and therefore themselves.

Khrushchev may accept co-responsibility in words spoken at a social gathering, but he certainly does not want to suffer the political consequences of this co-responsibility. He may feel, indeed, that the only way out is a return to Stalinist techniques and a closing of the Pandora's box he opened.

If so, he and his colleagues have the power to try a return to Stalinism, but whether that attempt will succeed after the education the Soviet peoples have received this past year is a question for the future to decide.

Thank-You Letters

NOW that school is in again, and the routine is more or less back to normal, I've been answering Christmas letters and slowly working down the list.

Ruth

What strikes me most about the letters from England this year is their sadness. It's definitely not grumbling. But it is quite plainly resignation and regret.

For instance, my Aunt C who is very old and nearly blind says that she hasn't seen the A's just lately because of petrol rationing.

Which means, of course, that the A's who used to go once a fortnight to Aunt M's village and take her out to tea and for a little drive, can't do it any more.

And when I think of how much those simple little treats meant to her, it makes me simply wild. Because, naturally, it's not just my Aunt C. It's the thousands of old people like her.

* * *

Another Aunt who's always sent an assorted parcel of small oddments for us and for the boys—forgetting that the young's tastes alter and develop with the growing years—has sent nothing this year except a loving letter in which she says she knows we'll understand that all the normal Christmas present money has gone to the Hungarian Relief. Which seems to me absolutely right.

But I hate to think of these old people who've lived through two World Wars, and through the long period of post-war austerity, having to deny themselves once again.

And I'm sure that many people in Victoria have received the same sort of letters written by shakey old hands on the familiar blue air forms. The children of the future will read of the Suez crisis as a part of history. We are seeing its effect on actual indfviduals.

* * *

After the letters of the old from England, it was quite a relief to turn to one from a younger Canadian friend, Eileen.

Eileen has three very naughty little boys, of whom she writes with amusement and understanding.

Part of my Christmas present from her was this anecdote, which I share with you.

On a rainy day this winter, one of the little boys appeared at the back door. His souwester was hanging from its string, his raincoat was gaping wide, and his gumboots were obviously full of water. With rain-plastered hair and muddy hands, he looked supremely happy.

Eileen wanted to make sure his brothers weren't on the little country road, but only in the field.

"Where's Bruce?" she asked.

"Bruce is where the wagon is," came the reply.

"Where's the wagon?" asked Eileen.

"The wagon's where Billy is."

"Well, where's Billy?" she asked with the cheery air that mothers put on when they're going quietly crazy.

"Billy's where Bruce is," said her youngest.

So, having come round in a full circle, she went out to look."

It's a silly little anecdote, I guess. But I think it's one of the best bits of childhood conversation I've ever heard. Each answer is perfectly logical from the child's viewpoint. And each is maddening to a busy adult.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Happiness Without Riches

I recently returned from attending an international Congress in one of the republics in Central America. For a week 750 delegates from all over the world discussed the problems of aging, and the problems of how to take care of aging persons. They tried to figure out why people and animals grow old and die; they talked about the diseases that are common in the aged; they talked about the blood fats that seem to produce heart attacks and strokes; and they talked about retirement, and the problems of caring well for elderly people.

Dr. Alvarez

As I went about the country I followed my usual custom and kept looking into the faces of people to see if they were happy. I was impressed by the fact that many of the persons I saw in the automobiles, which are so tremendously expensive in that land, looked unhappy and dissatisfied, while many of the poor people looked merry and contented. I can still see in my mind's eye a sweet little old couple: gray-haired, stoutish, and about 75 years old. Probably when they were young they had had so little food that they couldn't grow very tall. Their clothes were old and several times patched, and they hadn't had a pair of shoes between them, but they were trudging along so happily, hand in hand, just like a couple of lovers. It did me good to watch them. Obviously, they had found much contentment in hard work done side by side.

FESTIVAL OF GAIETY

In the park opposite my hotel, on the eve of one of their great festivals, there were hundreds of children running about very happily. They were so affectionate with their parents, and the parents were so loving with them. A child of seven or so would run up to a small child of three and grab him and hug him. Often in a mountain village, I would see a little girl of eight carrying around in her arms her little brother or sister aged two or three.

One day I watched seven or eight children playing on the edge of a sidewalk. There was an active little cherub of a boy about four years of age who tended every few minutes to stray out into the busy street. Every time an automobile started to whiz by, his brother, aged eight or nine, grabbed him and pulled him back onto the sidewalk. As I watched all these people—so happy and so affectionate with one another—I feared a psychiatrist would starve to death in such a neighborhood. There would not be enough Oedipus or Electra complexes to go around. Everyone was too happy.

The happiest child I saw was able to teach me much. As I passed through a little mountain village, I saw a naked youngster of four, playing in the mud in front of his father's thatched shack. With the help of a bit of string he was pulling behind him a chip of wood which evidently in his imagination was as beautiful as any Cadillac. He was having as much pleasure with that simple toy as if it had been the electric train of a boy born with a gold spoon in his mouth. And some of us are not happy until we get a 14-room house, two cars and a station wagon!

The cutest and most beautiful child I saw was a little black-eyed girl of five who was kneeling with her Indian father on the floor of the great cathedral in the capital city. The Indian felt so unworthy that he had remained some 30 or 40 feet away from the altar where about 100 people were hearing Mass. The cute little girl was looking around at everything with such wonderment in her lovely eyes. How I wished I could take a picture of her and her father and the whole scene—it was so moving.

UNSUNG HEROES

Many persons in this world are unsung heroes and heroines. One day I chatted with the very pleasant young woman who was cleaning up in my hotel room. She was obviously much more intelligent and well-born than any of the other maids I had seen. I asked her how she happened to be working as a maid, and she said that her father, who once had a good-sized business, had befriended a young man and had given him employment. Later, when the father caught him stealing from the till, he had had to let him go. With this the young man became enraged; he secured a gun and shot his old benefactor dead.

After this, little Maria, at the age of nine, had to face the problem of helping her mother and her several sisters to live in a country in which, at that time, few provisions had been made for the helping of widows and fatherless children. The girl told me that she much wanted to go to a business college to learn to be a secretary, but she kept working as a maid in order to make enough money to put her three younger sisters through school. Only when the sisters were old enough to get by on their own, would she go to college.

It was wonderful to see her so merry and happy. She wasn't sorry for herself, and apparently it had never occurred to her that she was a bit of a heroine, or that she was doing anything commendable. Like all wise persons, she was doing well the work that she had found close to her hands. Another heroine I chatted with was a sweet woman who slept at night under the little sidewalk newsstand from which she got her meager living during the day. With her was her two-months-old baby! Her alcoholic husband had deserted her.

Nobel Prize Winning Chilean Poet Dies

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Gabriela Mistral, 67, Chilean poet who won the Nobel prize in literature in 1945, died of cancer today in hospital.

Miss Mistral became seriously ill last October.

REPORTER QUERIES NO MENTION OF 'REGRET'

Ike Wishes Eden Health, Praises Freedom Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower voiced hope Wednesday that his "old and good friend," Sir Anthony Eden, who resigned as prime minister, soon will recover and enjoy "many useful years of happiness."

Eisenhower said in a statement read to reporters by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty:

"I have just been informed of the official announcement of the resignation of Sir Anthony Eden as head of Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom.

"Sir Anthony is an old and good friend of mine. During the days of the Second World War and since there have been few periods when he and I were not engaged in the study of some problem common to our two countries.

"Through the years I have developed for him a great respect and admiration.

"As foreign minister and then as prime minister, Sir Anthony has been a dedicated leader in the cause of freedom.

"He is a staunch believer in the need for unity among the community of free nations, especially between his country and ours.

"Mrs. Eisenhower and I extend to him and to Lady Eden our hopes that Sir Anthony will soon fully recover his health so that he may have many useful years of happiness ahead."

When a reporter asked whether diplomatic protocol motivated the president to refrain from expressing "regret" at Eden's departure, Hagerty pointed to the paper in front of him and said: "That's the statement."

Resignation May Be Antidote For Healing Anglo-U.S. Breach

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sir Anthony Eden's departure from the British prime ministership may hasten the healing of the breach in Anglo-American relationships, though no immediate or dramatic improvement is expected to result.

It is no secret around Washington that there was no love lost between Eden and State Secretary John Foster Dulles, who was among the first to blame Eden for the estrangement resulting from the British decision to intervene in the Middle East without first consulting the United States.

With Eden out, it was considered not unlikely that the Eisenhower administration's attitude towards Britain now might undergo a subtle change.

Dulles himself reserved comment pending official word.

Congressman John Vorys of Ohio, a senior Republican member of the House foreign relations committee, said he felt Eden's departure was a "good thing for Anglo-American relationships."

Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, Democratic vice-presidential candidate in 1952 and a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he "genuinely" regretted Eden's resignation.

"I think it bodes no good for relations between the United States and England," he said. "I think it points up the strained relationships between the United States and England."

The Dulles-Eden feud goes back several years to the Indo-China incident when Dulles flew to London and returned to Washington with what he thought was agreement by Sir Anthony to join the U.S. and France in military intervention against the Communist forces in that embattled Asian land.

"DETESTED" PM

When Dulles learned that Eden held there was no such agreement by his understanding, Dulles and his aides immediately spread word about the Washington press corps that Eden was "no honorable gentleman." To this day, the word around the state department press room has been—to put it bluntly—that Dulles "detested" the prime minister.

This ill-feeling may have been reflected in the American failure to support Eden and the British cabinet last summer in their dispute with Egypt over Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal.

Recently the Christian Science Monitor of Boston, another internationally-minded newspaper, observed in its news columns that Eden still "has not been forgiven for his intervention in Suez while the United States election campaign was still on."

The Monitor added:

"He wants greatly to be invited here, but isn't. The new British ambassador, Sir Harold Caccia, gets about the same treatment accorded to the Costa Rica or Guatemalan ambassador."

Eden Goes by Lonesome Road No Shouts...No Cries...Only Silence

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden took one of the loneliest journeys of his life Wednesday night — that mile-long strip of asphalt road between 10 Downing Street and Buckingham Palace.

Illuminated by gas street lamps from the Victorian era, this lonesome stretch of road in the heart of a huge city bears the odd name of Birdcage Walk.

Eden made the trip clumped in the back seat of a government automobile, a shiny silk hat resting shakily on his knees.

Only a handful of people, most of whom were unaware that Eden was resigning as prime minister, gathered at each end of his journey.

Eden's last ride as prime minister began at a few minutes past 6 o'clock.

A knot of photographers, reporters and bobbies stood in front of the old oak door at No. 10, two more gas lights casting long slanting shadows in the night.

Suddenly the door opened—and out came Eden.

He raise a limp hand and stepped into his car. He put his hat on his knees and, looking like a man holding back tears, spoke a soft order to his chauffeur.

Off they went. There were no shouts, no cries—only the silence of about 50 people.

The prime minister's car swung slowly past the cenotaph, that granite monument to the war dead. Simon, one of Eden's two sons, was killed in the Second World War.

Up past the cenotaph Eden's automobile moved past the foreign office, scene of Eden's greatest triumphs.

Then it started down Birdcage Walk, a long, straight road, each side lined by gaunt, sentinel-like trees, their limbs leafless in the January night.

Halfway down the road Eden's car passed the ruins of the Guards' apel, all but destroyed by a flying bomb that killed scores of worshippers in the last days of the war.

No more than 25 people stood at the east gate of Buckingham Palace as Eden went in. Again there was silence. Soon it was all over. Eden had seen the Queen.

At one minute past 7 o'clock Eden's car rumbled out of the travel courtyard of the palace. A sentry presented arms at the west gate.

Eden, his silk hat still on his knees, smiled faintly as his car turned up Constitution Hill and the road to Chequers, the country home of prime ministers.

The chauffeur stepped on the gas. Eden's car zoomed past the few drivers who had enough gasoline coupons to be on the road. A few moments more and the automobile was rolling toward the shadows of the countryside.

Back at 10 Downing Street the small crowd had swelled outside the doors of the prime minister's town residence.

By this time the clock showed 7.15.

U.K. PRESS REACTION

LONDON (Reuters)—Sampling of the mixed British press reaction to the resignation of Sir Anthony Eden:

The Times—"The swiftness and finality of his decision makes this latest act in his career one more of the many great services he has done the nation in a lifetime of public service."

The Manchester Guardian — "While he remained at Downing Street there could be no hope of making good the damage . . . A change was the first requirement for national recovery."

The Daily Sketch—"Let us be quite blunt . . . Ever since Suez the American government has adopted an attitude of frosty and self-righteous disapproval of Eden. . . ."

The Daily Telegraph—" . . . Indeed, it is even possible that Sir Anthony might have resigned earlier but for the indirect support accorded to him by widespread resentment against the American attitude."

The Daily Herald — "Sir Anthony goes in the midst of the crisis into which the Suez adventure has plunged us."

The Daily Mail—". . . many a man who has been justified by posterity has been dispraised in his own day. . . ."

The Daily Mirror — "It took him 32 years to become prime minister. In less than two years the fruits of all his endeavors have turned to ashes. . . . His Suez policies brought him down. . . ."

The News Chronicle—". . . the scars of Suez have eaten so deeply into the life of the nation that a change of leadership had become essential. . . ."

The Daily Express — "The royal prerogative can be exercised to give the country a prime minister who rouses none of the passions of the immediate past. . . ."

PM Pays High Tribute To Efforts of Eden

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, expressing "deep regret" at Sir Anthony Eden's health-forced retirement, has suggested a formula for the preservation of public leaders.

He joined Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Wednesday in paying tribute in the Commons to the 59-year-old British prime minister, who announced his resignation, because of ill health, after 21 months in office.

"I am sure," said Mr. St. Laurent, "we all share with the people of the United Kingdom their regrets at what seems to be—I hope not an end—but a serious alteration in the kind of service Sir Anthony Eden can render his fellow citizens."

"I think it is an example to us all that we must do everything required of us in order to have the personal satisfaction that we have done our best," Mr. St. Laurent said.

"But having done that we should not feel that we should have been able to manage the affairs of the world. There is a course of events that no one human individual can change."

SCRUB, LADDIES, SCRUB!

The strange little brooms wielded by the visiting Scottish team at the Victoria Curling Club were the oddest feature of the game as played in Scotland. Here, members of the C. H. Bull rink scrub the rock

Scotties Win--- But Still Lose

By BILL RAYNER

Taking advantage of the keenest ice they have yet encountered in Canada, the Scottish curlers Wednesday night at Victoria Curling Club posted the first two wins of their current Strathcona Cup tour but still came out on the losing end.

Victoria was the fourth stop for the 26-man band of visitors. They had previously lost 15 straight games before winning two of five matches Wednesday from Vancouver Island rinks.

The Scots lost, 60-47, however, in points, the final total of which decides the winner of the cup. They now face a deficit of 281-147, with 16 series of matches still to be played.

Bill Piper, captain of the Scottish team, skipped his rink to an 11-10 victory over Max Zabel's foursome of VCC honorary life members, and Jock Waugh curled to a 14-7 decision over Bob Fuller of Nanaimo and his up-Island rink.

Winning on their home ice were club members Gordie Robertson, who defeated A. M. Frame, 16-6, and Gar Taylor, who downed J. McWhirter, 14-7, while Ron Harper of Duncan took the measure of W. S. Henderson, 13-9.

Harold Hole of Victoria defeated C. H. Bull, 14-6, in a friendly match.

The duller Canadian ice, which has bothered the Scots since they landed in Montreal on Sunday, kept them off their game in the early ends. Ice is much keener in Scotland, the visitors reported, and the predominant style over there is a draw or "soft" game, as opposed to the usual "heavy" or knockout game in Canada.

Scots Had Trouble Finding the Weight

This led to frequent plugging of the territory between the hog line and the house by rocks as the Scots had trouble capturing the proper weight.

A sight not often seen at VCC, too, was a clutter of rocks in the house during almost each end as the host curlers hospitably played the Scots' draw game. And when the Scots did find the weight, up to six of their rocks could be counted inside the rings on many occasions during the evening.

The ice also made the visitors miss the broom frequently on take-out shots as they were forced off the mark in unaccustomed effort to throw a heavy rock.

The little push brooms, as opposed to the wide-sweeping Canadian corn brooms, were the most unusual feature of Scottish play. The Scots scrubbed mightily away in front of each rock much in the manner of charwomen and claimed that this cleaned the ice more precisely than the whisking of the Canadians.

Most prominent curler on the ice was the Scots' Jim Leadbetter, a mustachioed bulk of a man who looked like, and is, a top Scottish rugby star. Leadbetter, sweeping vigorously, first took off his tam, then his sweater, then rolled up the sleeves of his shirt as the evening wore on.

Game Unspectacular But Effective

Leadbetter had plenty of work to do, too, as his rink, skipped by Piper, came from behind an 8-2 deficit in the sixth end to nip Zabel by one point. Most of the other Scots staged comebacks, too, in the late ends as their unspectacular at times, but effective, draw game began to function. Except in Waugh's and Piper's case, however, they could not overcome early Canadian leads.

A six-ender in the ninth featured Waugh's win over Fuller. Robertson also posted a six-ender en route to his victory over Frame, while Henderson and Harper traded four-enders in their sharp battle and Zabel came up with a four-ender over Piper.

The Scots, weaving a bit from the bountiful Victoria hospitality, left for Vancouver immediately after the matches. They were scheduled to fly to Penticton today for the next series of games.

GIANTS TRY IN VAIN

Jackie Rejects $50,000 Offer

NEW YORK (UP) — Jackie Robinson rejected the highest offer of his career today and prepared to write his formal farewell to baseball.

The 38-year-old negro star, ending his career amid the same swirl of controversy with which it began, revealed that he is turning down more than $50,000 and "other considerations" to play this year with the New York Giants. He said his formal request for voluntary retirement would be sent to National League President Warren Giles "no later than next Tuesday."

"I only regret this offer was not made to me a couple of years ago," said Robinson by way of thanking the Giants for their generous offer. "I would have loved to play for people like Horace Stoneham and Chub Feeney."

FINAL BID

It was Feeney, the Giants' young, Dartmouth-educated vice-president, who made the final bid to lure Jackie back "for one more year." The offer, a contract for more than $50,000 in 1957 and a subsequent job in the Giants' organization, was made last night at Chub's home where Robinson and his wife dined with Mr. and Mrs. Feeney. News of the meeting leaked out and Robinson discussed it with reporters before appearing on a television program.

Robinson, whose top salary with the Brooklyn Dodgers was $42,500, said he thought "I convinced Feeney that I won't be playing," and added, "I don't believe I could do the Giants any good."

"He told me to think it over and give him the benefit of the doubt if there was the slightest chance I'd play," Robinson said. "I told him there was very, very little chance. I didn't give him a definite answer, but in my own mind I know how I feel."

The Giants cancelled a press conference they intended to call for this morning in the hope of announcing Robinson's return to the game but Feeney did hold out a faint hope that Jackie would change his mind.

"I don't think there's much chance he'll come back," Feeney conceded. "But I just have the feeling in the back of my mind that he still might like to give it a whirl for one more year."

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Claude Freeman, 28, a scout for the Chicago Cubs the last four years, Wednesday was named general manager of Des Moines Bruins of the Western Baseball League.

Jackson Cup Semifinal

Victoria and District Football League's Jackson Cup competition reaches the semi-final stage this weekend.

Gorge Hotel, top dog in the league standings but knocked out early in the just-completed McGavin Cup competition, will try to get by Canadian Scottish Saturday at Athletic Park.

Sunday two league games are scheduled. Punjab United meets Heaneys at Heywood Park and Butlers take on Tillicums at Central Park.

All games starte at 2 o'clock.

City Kennel Club

Mrs. Margot Bowden was returned for her fifth consecutive term as president of the Victoria City Kennel Club during the club's annual meeting Tuesday night.

Other officers elected were George Christie, first vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Anderson, second vice-president, and Miss B. R. Watt, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting discussed plans for the staging of several dog shows during the coming year, including a sanction show at the Crystal Garden Feb. 9 and a championship show March 29 and 30.

Hopes of Diet Change Dimmer for Hoop Vets

Odds against the Victoria High School basketball greats tasting one more slice of victory cake in their final battle with Vic High Totems grew a little longer Wednesday night.

Defeated in their last two annual meetings with the Totems after chalking up seven successive triumphs, the oldsters are, hoping for another ride on the win-wagon in their farewell appearance.

But their dim chances drooped further when Art Chapman announced from Vancouver that he would be unavailable for the clash at Victoria High Friday night. Chapman, who will be in Victoria Saturday, coaching Cloverdale in its exhibition against the Victoria senior "B" league all-stars, has decided to stay with his club for a league game on the Mainland Friday.

However, the linament brigade, restricted to former students of Vic High who have played on Canadian championship hoop teams, expects at least one addition to last year's roster.

Hank Rowe, the ex-Domino pivot ace, is due to return to the fold and it is possible that Alex McKeachie will rejoin the veterans.

Also slated to torture aging muscles once more are the seven players who carried the old-timers' banner last year—Porky Andrews, Chuck Chapman, Ian McKeachie, Ollie Goldsmith, Doug Peden, Busher Jackson and Red Martin.

Game time Friday at the new Vic High gym is 8 p.m.

49 SHEETS FOR 10,000 CURLERS

By BILL RAYNER

Scotch on Ice---A Problem

There are more sheets of ice in the city of Edmonton than in the whole of Scotland, home of the roaring game of curling.

This startling fact came out Wednesday evening during the banquet and reception tendered the visiting Scottish curling team at Victoria Curling Club prior to the Strathcona Cup matches with Vancouver Island rinks.

In all of Scotland, said J. Faed Sproat of the Scottish team, there are but 49 sheets of ice. These are located in seven rinks, all on artificial ice as Scotland's climate is somewhat similar to that of Victoria.

And there are just under 10,000 curlers in Scotland. This makes for a bit of a draw problem, with the result that very little sustained curling is done by any Scot. Sproat, from last October until the time he left for Canada, had curled only four times.

This is why the Scots consider Canada the mecca of curling. They were astonished to find that Edmonton, the third stop on their trans-Canada tour Tuesday, had more sheets of ice than their homeland. They haven't yet been to Winnipeg, where there are over a dozen clubs and over 100 sheets of ice.

The Scots are a bit overwhelmed by the Canadian hospitality, too, especially that brand tendered by Victoria.

"This is the verra best yet," said W. G. Piper, captain of the visiting team. "We've never-r-r seen the likes of it across Canada. I dinna think we'll last, ye ken."

What is getting the Scots down is the heavy schedule imposed on them by the Dominion Curling Association, arrangers of the tour. The Scots must play 20 series of matches within a span of two weeks, as compared to the 1949 tour, when the visiting team had as much as four days in which to rest up between cities.

Some of the curlers doubt that they will be able to finish the tour, done in at last by the killing kindness of their hosts and the split-minute schedule.

But they enjoyed themselves to the hilt while in Victoria, where the conviviality flowed freely from the moment the Scots arrived at Pat Bay airport.

The luncheon at Government House, the tour of the B.C. Forest Products plywood division and a too-short whirlwind dash around the waterfront were all considered superlative by the visitors.

And to the 15 farmers in the 26-man group, the rolling green pastures of the Saanich Peninsula, with Elk Lake likened to a "loch" at home, were a touch of old Scotland itself.

Indeed, it was a reluctant crew that headed for Pat Bay airport and Vancouver late last night. They would liked to have stayed a little longer, and Victoria's curlers would have been more than happy to oblige.

Warriors Flee in Retreat After Three Coast Losses

'58 BRIER DOOR OPEN, DCA PRESIDENT HINTS

Victoria Curling Club has been awarded the 1958 MacDonald Brier Dominion curling championships—unofficially.

John Dutton of Winnipeg, president of the Dominion Curling Association, gave this assurance Wednesday night in a speech at the VCC banquet for the visiting Scottish curlers.

"There's nothing official in this, but I'd like to have an invitation to come to this club a year this March," he said to the cheering club members.

Victoria has been lobbying for two years for the Brier to be held in conjunction with the province's centennial celebration in 1958. Final and official decision will be made in Kingston this March during the 1957 championships by the DCA Brier committee.

Teeder Flames With Old Fire

By The Canadian Press

The agonizing weeks of conditioning after a one and a half year layoff were rewarded Wednesday night as Ted Kennedy reappeared in Madison Square Garden in his accustomed role as Toronto Maple Leafs' take-charge guy.

The Teeder, a slow-gaited misfit in his comeback debut in Detroit last Sunday, was operating with all his old fire against the Rangers as he set up a pair of goals in a come-from-behind 4-3 Toronto victory.

Until this week the 31-year-old centre hadn't laced on a skate in National Hockey League competition since he won the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player on completion of his 13th season in 1954-56. A steady stream of Leaf injuries brought him out of retirement.

Coach Howie Meeker, a Kennedy linemate of past campaigns, stuck his old pro between Bob Pulford and Gerry James, both newcomers to the club since Ted's departure, and Teeder's old-style digging turned the new line into a top offensive threat.

After Dean Prentice had shot the Rangers into the lead before the game was two minutes old, Kennedy put a pass on the stick of rookie defenceman Al MacNeill, who drove home his 40-foot shot while Jack Evans was sitting out a Ranger hooking penalty.

A tripping penalty to Jim Morrison of the Leafs as the period ended set the stage for a second Ranger goal by Andy Hebenton 28 seconds after the intermission. Ron Stewart got that one back four minutes later.

Larry Popein put the Rangers in front for the third time while both sides were a man short late in the second period, but Kennedy's perfect passout to Pulford set the youngster up for the tying goal at the 7.13 mark of the final frame.

Dick Duff converted George Armstrong's drop pass for the winning tally just past the halfway mark of the period.

$110,000 RAISED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Mounties baseball club of the Pacific Coast League announced Wednesday it has reached the $110,000 mark in its campaign for $225,000, necessary to start the 1957 season.

Brasher Quits Track

LONDON (AP) — Chris Brasher of Britain, winner of the Olympic Games 3,000-metre steeplechase, arrived Wednesday via New York and immediately announced his retirement from track competition.

"In the future I shall only run or recreation to stop me puffing when running for a bus," he said.

"But I like skiing and it may be that I can get into Britain's cross-country skiing team for the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960," he said.

Enos Rarin' To Go; Signs for 17th Year

By UNITED PRESS

Enos (Country) Slaughter, baseball's old warhorse who insists on kicking up his heels like a young colt for the world champion New York Yankees, is all set to play his 17th season in the big leagues at the age of 41.

The Yankees announced today that the hustling outfielder has agreed to his 1957 contract estimated to call for a $20,000 salary.

"We know Slaughter can't be an everyday player for us," said a Yankee official. "But with a little rest now and then, we feel he can help us a lot."

Slaughter, who will reach his 41st birthday on April 27, just after the season opens, sparkled for the Yankees in the 1956 season. His two-run homer proved the winning blow in the third game, turning the tide in favor of the Yankees for the first time when Brooklyn seemed on the way to the title.

Slaughter was criticized for his play on Jackie Robinson's game-winning line drive for the Dodgers in the sixth game of the series, but many observers thought that just-released official movies of the series vindicated Slaughter's play on the hard-hit ball.

The former St. Louis Cardinal, Yankee, and Kansas City A's star has merely played in 2,122 games in his 16 years in the big time and has a .303 lifetime batting average.

Royals Thump Winnipeg; Calgary Shades Flyers

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League have ended a four-game west coast tour and are returning to the Prairies in full retreat.

The Warriors gained only one victory, a 6-5 win over the Coast division leading Seattle Americans in overtime. The three other coast teams met the Warriors and went away with victories.

Wednesday night, New Westminster Royals downed the Warriors 6-4, thus keeping a tight hold on third place on the coast. Vancouver Canucks lead the Royals by only two points.

STAMPS WIN, 1-0

Elsewhere, Calgary Stampeders squared their series with Edmonton Flyers with 1-0 victory in Calgary. It was the second shutout for Hank Bassen on home ice. The loss shaved Edmonton's lead over Brandon Regals to three points.

For New Westminster, Arlo Goodwin and Gord Fashoway scored two goals each. Others went to Dick Roberge and Arnie Schmautz.

Winnipeg's goals came from Dick van Impe, with two, Skip Burchell and George Ford.

Fast and furious, the game resulted in 18 penalties, including a 10-minute misconduct to New Westminster's Ollie Dorohoy. All three Winnipeg penalties went to defenceman Noel Price.

In the final frame the Royals lost the services of right winger Blinky Boyce, who dropped to the ice after a collision with Price. Although he was able to skate off, Boyce did not return.

The Warriors were in the runing until half way through the third, when Goodwin and Fashoway scored in quick succession. A three-goal rally in four minutes by Winnipeg towards the finish fell short.

Gerry McNamara replaced Ed Johnson in the Winnipeg net and handled 32 shots, the same number as Bev Bentley of the Royals.

4,000 SEE CLASH

More than 4,000 hometown fans braved sub-zero weather to watch the Stampeders gain revenge for a 6-5 overtime loss to Edmonton Tuesday night.

The only goal of the game came early in the second period when defenceman Doug Barkley took a pass from Ray Barry and back-handed a sizzler past Dennis Riggin in the Edmonton net.

Newcastle Nips Cup Champions

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester City, defending English Football Association Cup holder, was eliminated from this season's cup competition Wednesday, losing 5-4 at home to Newcastle United in a thrill-packed third round replay.

Newcastle, three times winners of the trophy in the last five years, again showed sturdy fighting qualities by turning a 3-0 half-time deficit into a 5-4 victory over extra time.

They scored a tying goal five minutes before regulation time to gain 30 more minutes' play, but Manchester again went ahead early in the overtime on a header from Scottish International Bobby Johnstone.

Shortly afterward, a faulty pass back to goalkeeper Bert Trautmann by a City defender enabled right-winger Len White to dash in and put Newcastle back on even terms at 4-4. White then crashed home the winning goal from close range midway through the overtime session.

Peterborough United won an away replay against Lincoln City of Division II, 5-4, also after extra time.

ENTERS NEXT ROUND

Peterborough joins Rhyl and New Brighton as non-league representatives in the next round.

Another away win was gained by Newport County, 1-0, at Southampton. The Welsh third-division club will now have a star home attraction against Arsenal in the next round.

The only home winner among the four replays played Wednesday afternoon was West Bromwich Albion, which beat Doncaster Rovers, 2-0.

Sheffield Wednesday and Preston North End battled to a 2-2 overtime tie in one of three replays played under floodlights Wednesday night.

In the other night matches, Wrexham nipped Reading, 2-1, and Birmingham City blanked Carlisle United, 4-0.

Senators Boost Bantam Lead; Thump Maroons

Rebounding from their first loss of the season last week, Senators boosted their first-place lead in the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association's bantam division by bouncing Maroons, 6-3, Wednesday at Memorial Arena.

Don Buie led the winners with three goals. John Paul, Barry Slocum and Barry Forbes collected one each, while Doug Skinner with two and Phil Wade scored for Maroons.

Tuesday, Capitals, led by Mike Woodley with two goals, defeated Royals, 6-4, in another bantam game.

GENE FULLMER, THE WASATCH WALLOPER — PART ONE

Church Elder Who Liked a Scrap

This is the first of a two-part article describing the rise to ring fame of the newly-crowned world middleweight champion, Gene Fullmer.

By AL WARDEN
NEA Special Correspondent

WEST JORDAN, Utah (NEA)—Gene Fullmer's story is as extraordinary as the new middleweight champion is rough and tough.

Fullmer, 25, is the first world boxing titleholder from the Wasatch Mountains since Jack Dempsey. He was named after Gene Tunney, but his idol was Dempsey, and he has all of the now legendary Manassa Man Mauler's likeness for the business, aggressiveness and desire.

Fullmer unquestionably is the first elder of a church to acquire a ring crown. A graduate of Jordan High Seminary, the belting bully boy and apprentice welder is an elder in the Latter Day Saints Church. Being a Mormon, he has never tasted alcohol or tobacco. He gives 10 per cent of his earnings to the church.

Those who were concerned about his chances against old Ray Robinson at Madison Square Garden just didn't know young Fullmer's background.

Lawrence Fullmer, one-time street fighter in the mining country in and around Salt Lake City, raised three sons to be just what they are. There are two more fighting Fullmers coming along, you see. Jay, a 19-year-old lightweight, recently turned professional after winning 71 of 72 amateur bouts. Don, 17, is a bright heavyweight prospect. An all-round athlete now weighing 170 pounds, he was Jordan High's first string quarterback in football the past season.

Larry Fullmer, now a welding foreman with the Kennecott Copper Company of Bingham and who in early days richly deserved the nickname of "Tuff," bought Gene his first pair of boxing gloves when the kid was six.

At eight, the new champion watched amateurs train in an old garage his present manager, Marv Jenson, rigged up at West Jordan, which is 15 miles southwest of Salt Lake City. He was so small that he stood on a table to punch the large bag. Ropes used by simon-pures were too long for the lad, so he tied them into many knots and in this way learned how to jump rope.

Jenson, now in his early 40's, was an excellent amateur lightweight and welter, and carried on as instructor of his own fighters—Rex Layne, the recent heavyweight contender, among them. Jenson, now one of the more important mink ranchers of the western country, took his boxing activities out of the antiquated garage and into an outdoor training camp seating 800. There is an indoor ring in the basement of his home. The West Jordan Arena accommodates 10,000.

Fullmer boxed exhibitions at eight, entered Amateur Athletic Union competition at 12, when he was supposed to be 16. Gene won more titles and trophies than you can shake a stick at, but dropped a close decision to Gil Turner in the National AAU semi-finals in Boston in 1948. They were to meet three times later as professionals, Gene winning two and losing one.

Fullmer suffered an injury to his right knee playing football for Jordan High, and it went out on him during the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament of 1949.

On May 2 of that year, the Intermountain AAU sanctioned an amateur program featuring Rex Layne, National AAU heavyweight champion, and Don Perko, International Golden Gloves champion of Pueblo, Colo.

The proceeds went toward an operation to correct Fullmer's trick knee.

Sugar Ray Robinson and the others who have been on Gene Fullmer's calling list will testify that this particular bit of surgery brought back a very rugged customer.

Basilio Backs Out; Claims Hand Injured

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio said Wednesday night he had injured his right hand in training and that he would have to postpone his scheduled Jan. 18 title defence with Johnny Saxton in Cleveland at least five weeks.

Basilio, of nearby Chittenango, N.Y., appears in the Wayne Bethet-Zora Folley fight with his right hand bandaged.

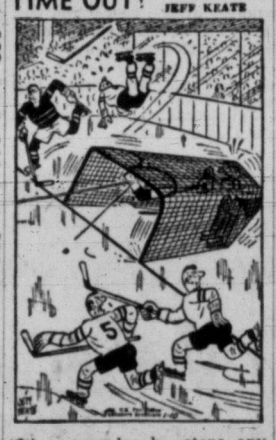
His co-managers, Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro, said they would visit the Cleveland commission today to ask for an official postponement and a new date for the fight.

"Why fight with one hand?" said Basilio at the Memorial Auditorium. "I want to be in perfect condition when I fight for the championship. I want to be able to give everything when I fight — that's what the people want and expect."

Basilio said he had bruised the hand a few weeks ago and had hoped that it would get better. He said, however, that he hasn't been able to hit the bags for a few days.

Dr. Charles Heck of Syracuse said the hand was swollen badly. The 29-year-old champion will be examined by commission physicians.

TIME OUT! By JEFF KEATE



"It's a wonder he stops anything! The way he's afraid to stand up to those bullet-like shots!"

Hornung Snubs Lions' Offer; Joins Packers

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Paul Hornung, Notre Dame's star quarterback, signed a contract Wednesday to play professional football with Green Bay Packers next season.

Neither Hornung nor R. W. Bogda, Green Bay president, would announce the salary.

Hornung was a bonus choice of the Packers in the National Football League's Nov. 30 draft. He turned down an offer from British Columbia Lions who held Canadian negotiation rights to him.

The 21-year-old star, who won the Heisman Trophy as the year's top college football player, will graduate from Notre Dame in June.

Big Night Planned For Phil Maloney

VANCOUVER (CP) — Phil Maloney, popular high-scoring centre of the Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, will be honored Jan. 29 when the Canucks stage "Maloney Night."

He will be the first player so honored since 1952-53, when goalie Emile Francis received $1,500 worth of gifts.

TABORI TRIES NEW YORK IN RED CARPET SEARCH

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dissatisfied with southern accommodations, Laszlo Tabori, the Hungarian mile runner, and his coach, Mihali Igloi, took a plane for New York Wednesday.

Tabori didn't like his hotel room, his meals, or his training facilities, all of which were provided without charge.

"Here in Miami," he said through an interpreter, "people can't afford to give me place like I'm use to."

Under Communism, he said, he and other star athletes were given "the best of everything" and he can't understand why America doesn't provide the same red carpet treatment.

'Don't Panic', Says Lou As Pool Meets Press

TORONTO (CP) — Hampton Pool isn't any different than any other football coach.

The former pilot of Los Angeles Rams, who recently signed a two-year contract with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Union, met Toronto sports reporters at a press conference Wednesday. No one learned much about Argonaut secrets for 1957.

Did he figure to concentrate more on a ground offensive along the lines of National Football League teams, rather than on an aerial attack.

"Well," said the 41-year-old native of Santa Monica, Calif., "you can't go overboard on either one.

"If we get the kind of passer we hope to get, we'll throw the ball. But you must remember that you should have the threat of a pass off a running attack and the running game off the threat of a passing attack."

Knowing the Argonaut imports of 1956, could he say what the team is looking for in the way of Americans for 1957?

"We are looking for the best men available. We'd like to get two men for each position. Certainly, we'd like to sign two-way men."

Pool was positive on one point. "Morale is more important than anything else on a football club."

Managing director Lew Heyman cautioned the writers not to "expect too much too soon" from the new coach, and advised the gathering to "stay away from a panic attitude."

Comes Off Deck For Ring Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP) — Promising young heavyweight Zora Folley, who got up off the canvas to win his second split decision over Wayne Bethea last night, today was promised a match with the winner of the bout between ranking heavyweights Bob Baker and Harold Carter.

The 25-year-old Folley, of Chandler, Ariz., apparently was startled into a strong finish after Bethea dropped him for a nine count in the seventh round of their televised 10-round match at War Memorial auditorium.

Bethea, 24, of New York, carried the entire fight to the slick-punching Folley, but Folley piled up the victory margin in the first four and 10th rounds.

N. Cowichan Hits Hospital Set-Up

Setback for New Duncan Hospital As Split District Plan Protested

DUNCAN—Another stumbling block has been thrown in the path of plans for a new King's Daughters' Hospital here.

The North Cowichan municipal council this week expressed opposition to dividing the municipality into two hospital districts.

The municipality also criticized the official survey report of Vancouver Island's hospital needs on the grounds that "administrative and medical convenience" was placed ahead of local sentiment, "which has been completely ignored."

The government's hospital survey report gave priority to new hospital construction in Duncan.

At its last meeting the North Cowichan council adopted a policy to cover its future participation in the proposed new KDH building.

The policy, which it to apply also to any future Chemainus Hospital needs, calls for the municipality to finance its share of costs as a single unit. It would not become the whole or part of separate hospital districts for KDH or Chemainus Hospital.

The policy wants the municipal cost share based on the number of North Cowichan patients in the hospital, and not on proportionate assessments.

72% TO KDH

In 1955 72 per cent of the North Cowichan ratepayers requiring hospital care were admitted to KDH, with the remainder going to Chemainus Hospital. However, the North Cowichan patients accounted for only 21 per cent of KDH patient days, while in Chemainus they comprised 90 per cent of that hospital's patient days.

North Cowichan residents compiled a total of 6,958 patient days in KDH during 1956, while their total in Chemainus Hospital was 2,623 patient days.

Under the new municipal formula, North Cowichan would pay only 20.42 per cent of authorized capital improvements to KDH but would pay 90.6 per cent of similar costs at Chemainus.

In 1955 the unorganized areas of the Cowichan district contributed 60.84 per cent of the KDH patient days' total.

Sooke Trustees Want Parley With Minister

SOOKE — Trustees of Sooke School District 62 will appeal directly to the education minister, Leslie Peterson, for support of a school building referendum which has been rejected twice by his department.

Decision was made at a trustees' meeting this week at Milnes Landing High School, when John S. Williams, re-elected as chairman, reported the referendum had been rejected on the grounds that population figures did not justify classroom space requested.

TOO MANY ROOMS

Chief points of contention, he said, were the high number of school rooms. The board wants seven rooms at Belmont, and the department estimates five will be sufficient. At Milnes Landing High School the board wants two additional rooms, and the department will approve none.

Trustees claimed any further reduction in the referendum, which has been 18 months in preparation, would render it ineffective.

Mr. Williams recommended early implementation of a motion passed at the annual representatives' meeting in November that called for general election of trustees in the area between Langford and Metchosin, rather than the present system of school meetings and election of representatives.

BAND TO KELOWNA

The board approved a plan submitted to Belmont High School to send the school band to the annual school band conference in Kelowna in May.

It voted to stand by its current salary offer to teachers, which includes a pay increase plus medical coverage. Earlier it had approved a 10 per cent increase for all non-teaching employees.

A. R. Hull was elected vice-chairman of the board. Committee chairmen are J. Hunter, management; J. Martin, buildings and grounds; and Mrs. I. Reader, finance.

Dial Phones For Duncan By 1960

DUNCAN—With more than 3,000 telephone subscribers, the Duncan area is almost assured of dial phones by 1960, and most likely a new and larger exchange building.

This information was given to the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce by Lionel Huxtable, B.C. Telephone Co. district commercial manager in Nanaimo.

This year some $100,000 will be spent for new wire and cable, and additional switchboards for both local and long-distance service will be installed, he said.

Lowest B.C. Tax Rate Boasted By Ladysmith

NANAIMO — Advantages boasted by Ladysmith as a place to live were reviewed Tuesday at a meeting of Nanaimo Kiwanis Club by Steve Findlay, chairman of the Ladysmith Chamber of Commerce.

He said his city has the lowest tax rate in B.C., blacktop on every road, a $300,000 hospital paid for by the people and due to open shortly, a good timber industry, flourishing oyster industry, and a water system that will be paid for within two years.

Cowichan Board Calls Bids On Two Schools

DUNCAN—Bids for construction of one new school and additions to a second are being invited by Cowichan District 65 School Board.

Plans call for a three-room school at Tansor, on the Cowichan Lake Road three miles west of here, and for a two-room addition to Crofton School.

Both projects are a part of the $650,000 program authorized by ratepayers last year.

winter-stalling the new way!

Ever back out on a cold wet day and have the engine stall while you close the garage doors . . . then stall again at the first stop sign?

If so, you're painfully familiar with carburetor icing . . . where vaporizing gasoline cools the carburetor metal, transforming moist air into tiny ice crystals around the throttle valve. This shuts off the gasoline and air supply to your engine.

Now, Chevron Gasolines contain a revolutionary new additive to eliminate those ice crystals. Recently developed by one of North America's largest research laboratories . . . and available for the first time in Western Canada in Chevron Gasolines . . . DMF (Dimethyl Formamide) has been proven by exhaustive tests to be seventeen times more effective, in equal concentrations, than any other de-icer tested.

For trouble-free winter engine idling at all times insist on . . .

Algoma Steel featured trading on the Toronto stock market today as industrials spurted ahead amid moderate dealiigs.

Algoma Steel climbed 5¼ points to 118½. Steels in general were strong.

New York market saw prices higher but below their best in some cases and trading was quiet. Pivotal stocks had gains of fractions to around 2 points. Leading rails made a number of small gains.

At Toronto International Paper and Interprovincial Pipe Line were two-point winners among other industrials. Losses were generally fractional although Trans Prairie Pipe Line and Great Lakes Paper dipped a point.

Extended Credit Controls Predicted By Bank President

MONTREAL (CP)—Monetary and credit controls may need to be extended to wider areas than they cover at present, James Muir, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said today in his address to the bank's annual meeting.

Over the years, said Mr. Muir, such an abundance of other forms of credit creation has arisen that the supply of credit may move completely opposite to the direction which official monetary policy attempts to induce.

"It may be taking too positive a view of a distant scene," he added, "but it would at least appear that, in order to be fair and to achieve the best results, monetary policy and credit control may have to embrace a wider area of our financial world than it now does."

INFLATIONARY PRESSURE

There were at least two sources of inflationary pressure which the central bank, with its present power, would find it difficult to reach.

One lay in the capital funds market. In a condition where interest rates were rising and were expected to rise still further, some borrowers floated capital issues to provide cash balances which they might need later.

"What we have," said Mr. Muir, "is a sort of panic to get money now for fear it will not be available later."

LOST: ONE CRUISER FROM B.C. SHIPYARD

VANCOUVER — Police said Wednesday they are searching for a $2,100 cabin cruiser, stolen from a shipyard here.

Boat-owner J. W. Robson said he took a "prospective buyer" for a trial spin two weeks before Christmas. The man did not leave his name and failed to show up later that day as promised.

Robson said he left Vancouver the next day for a vacation in Hawaii and only discovered the theft on his return.

42-Cent Hourly Wage Increase Sought by Painters' Union Here

A 42-cent-an-hour wage increase is being asked by 224 painters in their 1957 working agreement submitted to Victoria contractors.

Twenty-six glassworkers also are asking for the same wage boost from three firms—Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd., O'Neil Glass & Paint Ltd., and Pacific Glass Ltd.

Paperhangers, members of the same union as painters and decorators, Local 1163, are asking for a 52-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The pay increases would raise wages for brush painting to $2.61 an hour, paperhanging to $2.71 an hour, spray painting to $3.11 and spray painting on erected structural steel, $3.36 an hour.

The glass-workers would get $2.35 an hour.

In addition, painters are asking for statutory holidays with pay, and double pay for overtime.

The glass-workers also want double pay for overtime; three weeks holiday with pay after two years' service, and extra pay for working at heights.

EDGELOW'S OPINION

Suburbs Should Pay For Arena Addition

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt should bear the brunt of costs of any addition to Memorial Arena according to Alderman Geoffrey I. Edgelow.

Victoria should provide only the property and the ice facilities, he said.

"It is high time the outside municipalities started to recognize the city's problem—that their children are using an arena built with the city's money, and on which the city still owes plenty.

"If we said your children can't skate now, ours are going to skate first, the outside municipalities would suddenly realize that they have a problem themselves. It's time we called a spade a spade."

MERCY FLIGHT SAVES CHILD

Emergency flight to Vancouver from Tofino hit bad weather Wednesday, forcing PWA Norseman to put down in Victoria harbor. Tiny Andrea Folker, 18 months, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital and is now reported off the critical list. The child suffered head injuries in a fall in her home. She was airborne for two hours. ## Mayor Announces Plan to Rotary

Mayor Percy Scurrah has asked the Capital Improvement District Commission for funds to cut a new east-west road through Beacon Hill Park.

The mayor told a Rotary Club luncheon today he has asked the CIDC to provide funds for completion of the waterfront beautification project started last year on Dallas Road between Cook and Douglas.

The new road, probably an extension of Michigan Street, "would give a new outlet to about 60 per cent of the people who work at the Parliament Buildings and live east of Cook Street," the mayor said.

He envisaged the east-west road extending from Michigan and Douglas to Heywood Avenue. This would cut off from the rest of the park only a small section which is quite rocky.

Mooney Wants Referendum On Wage Hike

Council will be asked today to hold a referendum on the question of whether civic wage requests should be granted this year.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of public works committee, said he will propose the referendum to a special council meeting.

Admitting final decision on wage requests would probably be decided by a conciliation board if no agreement was reached with the unions, he felt a referendum would nevertheless establish public thinking on the annual round of wage boosts.

A total of $237,000 in increased wages and benefits is being asked this year by police, fire and civic inside and outside workers' unions, according to Mayor Percy Scurrah.

"I think we should take a stand and hold the line," said Ald. Mooney. "We have to if we want to keep taxes down. I think the situation is becoming serious.

"It's such a big problem I go on record as supporting the idea of putting this question direct to the people."

"Let them decide. I think it may cost the city about $400 (the referendum), which I think will be money well-spent."

FRIDAY MEETINGS

BETWEEN TIMES

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been trying to avoid this for several weeks. But ever since the remarks in this space anent the spoonerized pun, I have been receiving various versions of a particularly atrocious example.

So let us get this over with, and if you don't like it, complain to Lieut. Charles Taylor, RCN.

An American couple were on vacation in Spain with their one-year-old son and they were involved in a car accident which resulted in the death of the parents. The infant was found by a wandering band of Basques who subsequently raised it. The Basques brought the boy up in their village and, later, sent him to America to be educated.

The boy went on to become a fabulously wealthy industrialist. After making his millions he decided that he would take a trip back to Spain to visit the Basque people who raised him.

There was great rejoicing at his return and the wealthy young man told them that as a mark of his gratitude for raising him, he would give them anything they desired. The Basques finally decided that what they wanted most of all was a movie theatre, so the young man sent to America for the greatest architects to design this building. When completed it was the most up-to-date theatre in the world. There was only one peculiar thing about its design—there was only one door in the building.

Anyway, there was a gala opening. All the Basque women received enormous boxes of chocolates while the men were given cigars as they entered. However, during the show there was a fire and in the rush to get out of the theatre the entire audience was trampled to death.

The moral of this story is:

Don't put all your Basques in one exit!

'I Didn't Plan To Rob Bank'

Acted on Spur Of Moment, Says Robber

Bank robber Leonard Wilson pleaded guilty and apologized in city police court today for robbing a downtown bank of $1,340 Monday noon.

Eighteen-year-old companion Valeria Jessiman, Duncan, who was picked up by Seattle police with Wilson early Tuesday and faced the same charge of robbery, was released when the charge was withdrawn by prosecutor Alan Bigelow.

Magistrate H. C. Hall adjourned the case against 29-year-old Wilson, a welder, construction worker and professional wrestler of Duncan and Vancouver to Jan. 16 for a probation report.

NO PART

Miss Jessiman, said Mr. Bigelow, had no part in the offence. She left the courtroom, packed to seating and standing capacity by more than 100 spectators, almost immediately after the charge was withdrawn.

Wilson, in a strong, modulated voice, entered his plea of guilty. A few minutes later, after the story of the robbery of Royal Bank of Canada Douglas and Cormorant branch was told by city detective Alex Briggs, Wilson told the court:

"I did walk into that bank, your honor. I'm awfully sorry about it. I'd like to make it up to the bank.

"It was something I did on the spur of the moment. I didn't plan it or anything."

An order for restitution of $856.39 found in Wilson's possession in Seattle was made by Magistrate Hall.

Both principals were dressed well, the six-foot, 200-pound Wilson in a grey suit, his hair combed and face shaven, and auburn-haired Miss Jessiman in a grey topcoat, chartreuse scarf, grey shoes and handbag and wearing pendant pearl earrings.

She appeared older than her 18 years, and looked down or straight ahead from the prisoner's box.

FIDGETY

Wilson was more fidgety and glanced around the court room from time to time.

Detective Briggs, the only witness heard, said Wilson went into the bank shortly before noon Jan. 7 and walked to a counter in the centre of the room.

He wrote on the back of a bank withdrawal slip: "I have a gun. All the large bills, or I'll shoot."

The witness said he showed the note to teller Alma Koppel, standing with a hand in his pocket. She gave him $1,340 in bills of $20 and $10 denomination, and he left the bank.

Wilson walked to the Douglas Hotel, a few hundred yards away, where he was later met by Miss Jessiman, the policeman said.

NO GUN

Asked by the prosecutor if Wilson had a gun in his possession at the time of the offence or when arrested, the detective said no. The imitation of an offensive weapon, stated in the charge, was only his hand, he said.

The charge read that the accused "while armed with an offensive weapon or imitation thereof, to wit a pistol, did steal $1,000 from the Royal Bank of Canada, 1517 Douglas."

CREDIT TO AGENT

Much credit for Wilson's capture goes to TCA traffic agent J. Reid Hannan, who was on duty at Patricia Bay airport when Wilson and Miss Jessiman showed up with minutes to spare for the 2 p.m. flight to Seattle Monday.

They had taken a cab from town—an 18-mile trip—having missed the airport bus. Hannan's suspicions were aroused when Wilson paid the heavy cab fare without complaint, a rare thing for passengers who miss their bus, he said.

The man, who fitted a description given Hannan by Sidney RCMP but wearing different clothing, appeared nervous and frequently wiped his forehead, the agent said.

Const. G. W. King, of Sidney detachment, had been alerted by city police to watch the airport, but when Wilson and Miss Jessiman arrived he had left the airport and returned to Sidney for a court case.

Hannan notified police and Seattle officers took the case from there, observing the couple's actions until taken into custody about 5 a.m. Tuesday.

City detectives Briggs and Gus Munro were sent to Seattle with the bank teller and witness Art Luney, who recalled a man answering Wilson's description bumped him at the door of the bank immediately after the robbery. They picked Wilson from a lineup.

COMPANION OF BANK ROBBER, Valeria Jessiman, cleared of any participation in holdup, is reported to have gone with Wilson to Seattle under impression they were to be married.

SHOWER IN DUNCAN

Girl Planned To Marry Bank Bandit

Friends of 18-year-old Valeria Jessiman, Duncan girl companion of bank robber Leonard Wilson, are quite convinced she left Duncan Sunday with Wilson with the intention of being married in Seattle.

Miss Jessiman had made their plans known, and she had been entertained at least once as a bride-to-be. Their wedding date had been set for last Saturday, but the apparent delay and change of plan were accepted as routine.

Miss Jessiman was an excellent student at Cowichan High School until about a year ago, when she left school and took a job with the B.C. Telephone Co. She lived at a Bundock Street boarding house, where she took care of her younger sister.

A United Church member and former member of the CGIT, she gave a fair amount of her time to youth work. Her parents live in the interior of B.C.

Wilson had been in the district since July 5, first staying at a boarding house, then moving to the home of a friend. He had worked for Commonwealth Construction Co. on a Malahat road reconstruction project.

BANK CONSIDERS REWARD FOR ALERT TCA AGENT

Possibility of a reward for J. Reid Hannan, the TCA official who spotted confessed bank robber Leonard Wilson, is being discussed here today.

The Canadian Bankers' Association maintains a fund to reward those who affect the capture of bank robbers, or supply information leading to their capture. Rewards of up to $5,000 have been given in the past.

The association decides each case on its own merits.

R. R. Wilde, manager of the Royal Bank branch which was held up Monday, said today Mr. Hannan "certainly deserves some recognition."

Today's beefs:

Jan. 4, 11.30 p.m., corner Government and Belleville, where there is a special green arrow light for right turns against the main red light. The green arrow was off when myself and two friends stepped off curb to cross on the pedestrian green light. But a bakery truck flashed around the corner in front of us, completely disregarding the fact the turning arrow was not showing.

A. S.

At Cook and Fort, about 8 a.m. Monday, a large cream colored Buick was following the centre lane on Cook when suddenly the driver stuck out his arm, swung out of the centre lane, and turned right onto Fort. In so doing he blocked a stream of cars travelling behind on Cook, and if the foremost car had not pulled up sharply there would have been a collision.—C.W.N.

I was driving south on Douglas approaching Herald when a woman pedestrian, looking back over her shoulder and waving goodbye to a friend, darted into the street several yards from the crosswalk and trotted diagonally across the street. Fortunately I was driving slowly enough to stop in time, but the woman never did turn her head to see if any traffic was coming.—C.R.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—I recently heard over the radio that the Johnson Street bridge was opened officially in 1922. There seems to be a mistake here. I visited Victoria in November, 1923, and I walked from Esquimalt to Victoria by way of Johnson Street. They were working on the bridge at that time and there were only two widths of planks to walk over by but no way of getting vehicles across. Please state when it was actually opened to all traffic.—L.M.S.

A.—The records make it plain your memory is confused. A descriptive item on page 9 of The Victoria Daily Times of Oct. 3, 1922, read in part: "The vehicular and foot section of the new Johnson Street bridge was declared open yesterday afternoon by Mayor Marchant and the first of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway trains used the new bascule when the up-Island regular train crossed over the bridge at 5.40 o'clock. His Worship broke a bottle of champagne on the concrete counter-balance." It was explained that until the railway section was built in the spring the trains could use the rails on the completed vehicular and foot section.

Here Are a Few Suggestions For That 'Evening at Home'

By PENNY SAVER

Is this the evening you plan to spend at home? And just what do you plan to do on this "leisurely" evening in? Watch TV . . . read . . . sew . . . sleep? How about that overflowing box of snapshots, photographs and programs you've pushed away into a corner of the wardrobe? This would be a good time to put them where they belong—in an album. Gather up your materials, and let's go!

First, here's the spacious album, bound in mock leather. Which color do your prefer? There's a wide selection of shades. You can pay almost any price, up to $10 or $15 for a photo album, but you may also buy one of these at just $1.59.

Your next item is a package or box of photo corners. To suit your own tastes, there are black, gold, red or silver corners to hold the pictures and cards neatly in place. For 300 in a package you pay 25 cents. Other smaller packages are 10 and 15 cents. The next thing is to find a wide and empty space, on the living room floor or on a large table, for the sorting. It's really an enjoyable way to spend an evening, and before long you'll find yourself laughing over almost-forgotten incidents recalled through the pictures or programs. Besides filling the evening, you've cleaned out a corner of your wardrobe as well! So, it turns out to be a constructive few hours, after all.

No doubt, some who read this far will have a smug expression by now. So . . . your pictures are already put away neatly in albums! So you have one up on us!

Well, you could probably spend time on kitchen or pantry cupboards if your energetic enough. What home hasn't at least one cupboard that becomes the store closet of a miscellanea of things? Shelves in your pantry can be tidied and re-lined, and the job will prove to be very satisfying, for the new washable and water-resistant shelf paper makes it necessary to do the job less often than before.

In solid colors or varied colors in modern designs, the amazingly hard, smooth plasti-chrome finish is long wearing and resists stains. It may be wiped clean with a damp cloth in a jiffy. Plain white, in 13-inch by 25-foot rolls costs 25 cents. For 49 cents, you buy 21 feet of 13-inch paper, patterned. Shelf lining paper with decorative edging covers the entire depth of even your deepest shelves. In many patterns and favorite colors, it sells at 49 cents for 15 feet.

There now, your evening is laid out for you. What's that? . . . you've decided to go out after all . . .!

SHOULD A PROFEFSSOR ENTERTAIN FOR A NEW DEAN?

A new dean, who recently came to our college, is younger than most of the professors and teaching staff. What is the protocol in entertaining for this newcomer? Is it up to a professor who is considerably older and who has been at the college for a number of years to give a party for this younger man and his wife? Or wouldn't it be correct because of age and years of service?

Louise

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

Age, position and years of experience is no criterion in a case like this. Supposing everyone on the faculty is older than the new young dean. If one goes by age, the newcomer would then seemingly get the cold shoulder, for he would not be entertained at all. Here is a stranger in your midst who might be a delightful addition to the college and to the community. Why not then welcome him and his wife with open arms and with genuine hospitality? A college president and his wife often entertain for a new dean, so why should it be beneath the dignity of a distinguished professor and his wife to do the same? A professorial community is no different than any other "closed corporation" when a stranger arrives on the scene. Entertaining for him is not a case of pocketing pride either. It is a hospitable, thoughtful and friendly gesture of welcome for a young man who can't help it that he is younger than the others and that he has accepted a new position in a college.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Would you like to look from five to 10 years younger at the end of eight weeks? This isn't something I am dreaming up, but an entirely possible goal to shoot for. I have seen it happen over and over again in my classes and thousands of letters from readers tell of their success.

I am talking about my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon which I offer to my readers in January of each year. Eight weeks is such a short time that anyone can stick to a routine for that long, yet it is long enough to lose 20 pounds and minimize or lose completely, any defects in beauty you may have. You actually can look like a different person just eight weeks from now.

Remember that the first two weeks are the hardest part of any diet or exercise program. After the first week you will find your routine easier. After two weeks you will be over the hump.

INCLUDE EXERCISE

Unless there is some reason for not doing so, exercise should be a part of your reducing or self-improvement program. This tones while the pounds drop off, and it speeds the loss in inches as well as in weight. Not only that, but there are such wonderful by-products. Many women who exercise with figure improvement their only goal find that stiff joints disappear, constipation becomes a thing of the past and they have much more energy than before.

You should ask your doctor to check your heart and blood pressure before beginning exercise and should follow his advice in this matter, but if he gives you the green light, make it a part of your self-improvement routine.

If you are overweight generally you will have to count calories, but if you are the correct weight you can lose, by exercise, inches in some measurement which is too large. You also can increase proportions through exercise.

Today I want to give you two easy ones. Do not be fooled because they seem simple. They are most effective.

1. Stand with your left side toward the wall. Extend left arm so fingers touch the wall. Raise your right arm up by your right ear. Hold it there while you bend, touching the fingertips of your right hand to the wall. Raise your trunk, arm still by ear. Continue. You should be far enough away from the wall to feel a good pull at the waist when you bend your trunk toward the wall. After a while turn your right side toward the wall, raise your left arm up by your ear and continue.

2. Lie on the floor on your back. Arms rest on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen and grasp the knees with your hands. Return legs and arms to the floor and continue.

If you would like to join my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon to see how much you can improve your appearance in eight weeks' time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Increased Attractiveness Will Improve Your Outlook."

(Released by The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1957)

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep a few bottles of table and dessert wines handy to add that special touch to a family meal. Store corked bottles on their side so corks will remain moist and tight.

Add a personal touch to your favorite cake mix by baking it in a fancy mold. Give more glamor by spreading it with a sour cream-walnut frosting. Keep four and eight-ounce vacuum-packed tins of golden walnuts on hand for instant use.

Brighten a winter menu with a relish tray of crisp raw cauliflower and celery, handsome ripe olives and whole spiced canned cling peaches.

Enjoy corned beef hash at a moment's notice. Add two tablespoons new moisture-free instant minced onion to a package of instant mashed potatoes; cook according to label directions. Then add one egg and a can of corned beef. Shape into patties and fry in butter or bacon drippings until golden brown.

TODAY'S RECIPE

WALDORF SALAD

Half cup light or dark raisins, 2 cups diced apple, 1 cup diced celery, ½ cup coarsely broken walnuts, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons orange juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, lettuce.

Rinse and drain raisins. Combine apple, celery, raisins and walnuts. Blend together mayonnaise, orange juice, salt and sugar. Pour over apple mixture and toss together lightly. Serve in lettuce cups. Makes four to six servings.

Dior Allows Relaxed Curves In 1930-Inspired Stylings

NEW YORK (AP) — Christian Dior, the Frenchman who loves to upset applecarts, turns from his native land to the America of the 1930s for the apparent inspiration for his 1957 spring collection.

His models walk with the debutante slouch of the period. They wear deep helmet hats with white linen bands. They slink and switch in the manner of Auntie Mame. And their skirts are not a bit longer than those of last season.

Visiting fashion editors halfway through the crowded schedule of this week's spring style previews got up early to have breakfast in Dior's chase Fifth Avenue salon this morning and to wait with bated breath to see if the high mogul of fashion would require women to wear ankle-length skirts or abolish their bosoms this season.

He did neither. After upsetting the entire New York garment industry with prophecies of long skirts, Dior (with a sly chuckle, no doubt) showed daytime skirts at exactly the same length as those of last fall, the only longer ones being in cocktail and dinner dresses, whose length always has been variable anyway.

Busts are in their proper place and proportion, and models even are allowed to have hips this time.

SHOW RELAXED LINES

The general impression of the Dior American collection is one of well-bred ease, with relaxed curving lines in what he calls the "lyre" silhouette, much like his "magnet line" of last year, consisting of a curved bodice set atop a curved skirt, the curves, naturally, being at bust and hipline.

Shoulders and sleeves are rounded, too, and the pegged top of skirts allows room for a slight bulge, such as most women have just below the belt.

Ideal Life For Artist In Sanitarium

CALGARY (CP)—A woman artist who has a painting in the National Art Gallery of Canada, Janet Mitchell says that a stay in a sanatorium can be beneficial in many ways.

Allowed to paint after spending months in the Baker Sanitorium, which she is leaving soon, she said in an interview: "This is the ideal life for an artist. No dishes to wash. No meals to get. No office to go to every day. Nothing to do but rest and paint."

Miss Mitchell works with both oils and watercolors. "I'll be glad to get home," she said, "but I hope I can retain the feeling of peace and patience that I have acquired here.

NO HURRY

"I used to rush around, going here and there, doing things I didn't need to. I never had time to paint when I wasn't tired.

"Being out here, I've been able to catch up with myself. It's a good life, really. The only thing missing is the necessary stimulus to paint . . . things like music, conversation and other painters, and being able to study other artists' work."

For some months after entering the sanatorium she was not allowed to paint at all. Last April the doctors permitted her to take up her brushes again for work in watercolors.

"Between April and September I did more than 100 watercolors," she said. "Now, I can work in oils too, of course."

Besides having had a one-man show in Ottawa in December, Miss Mitchell has 20 watercolors in Toronto on loan to the Picture Loan Society, and was invited to send some of her work for the Christmas sale of paintings in Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Whirlwind Campaign Her Aim

In Victoria for two months to organize the Victoria division of a province-wide campaign culminating with the "Mothers' March on Polio" on February 16, is Miss Beryl Wilson, Vancouver.

Miss Wilson is working with Vic Van Isle and Sidney Kinsmen to promote the campaign, which last year raised $45,000 in the Victoria area. This year, use of the money will be extended to include welfare cases.

"We haven't set a quota for Victoria, although we are hoping to top last year's amount," said Miss Wilson. "There is, however, a provincial quota of $400,000."

Last year there were 87 cases of polio in British Columbia 18 of them from Victoria.

When she leaves Victoria, Miss Wilson will return to her job in the British Columba Polio Fund office in Vancouver. She spends her day visiting hospitals and looking after affairs of patients, including arranging treatment programs, payment of accounts and arranging transportation for patients of outlying districts.

Helping polio victims and welfare cases from her office is the work of Miss Beryl Wilson.

Active Canadian Woman Enjoying Inside Look at United Nations

OTTAWA (CP)—Kathleen Bowlby, national secretary of Canada's United Nations Association, has been getting an "inside look" at the United Nations as a special adviser to Canadian delegates at the 11th General Assembly.

A special adviser's work, she explained in a letter from New York, sometimes means "pinch-hitting" for Canadian representatives on UN committees.

Usually, she follows meetings of the economic committee dealing with technical assistance and economic development in underdeveloped countries, and the social, humanitarian and cultural committee concerned now with the Hungarian refugee problem and the work of agencies such as the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

At one committee meeting, she had to make a statement about UNICEF.

"It's quite a thrill the first time you speak on behalf of Canada—at least it was to me," she wrote.

DEVOTED WORKER

A dynamic, blue-eyed and white-haired native of Aylesford, N.S., Kathleen Bowlby has been the association's national secretary here for the last eight years.

A chemistry graduate from Acadia University at Wolfville, N.S., and a former school teacher and principal, she worked at the federal mines bureau during the Second World War and later lectured at Carleton College here.

She was Carleton's registrar for two years before joining the UN association.

Keenly interested in education and international affairs, she said Canadians show a growing interest in their country's role in world affairs.

"People write from all over the country for information," she said in an interview here before she left for New York. Many inquiries come from high school students and women's institutes.

Association headquarters here serves as an unofficial UN information office. And the association's 25 branches sponsor speakers, panel discussions and student seminars in co-operation with univerisities.

St. David's Women's Guild Names Officers for Year

Mrs. K. M. Lewis was re-elected president of the Women's Guild, St. David's-by-the-Sea, at the annual meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

Election was conducted by Mrs. R. J. Welsh and other officers are Mrs. S. Morgan Hobbs, vice-president; Mrs. T. Brown, secretary; Mrs. W. Ronald, treasurer.

Treasurer's annual report, read by Mrs. N. Westwood, showed a sum of $1,615.23 raised for all purposes during the past year, through teas, bazaars, a flower show and garden party, rummage sale and various other affairs.

Mrs. Lewis reviewed the activities of the organization and thanked members for their co-operation. Mrs. R. Renfrew moved a vote of thanks to the retiring officers.

Plans were made for a rummage sale in the church hall on Feb. 2, and to serve doughnuts and coffee throughout the morning. There will also be a home cooking stall. A canvas is under way for good used clothing, small appliances and superfluities of all kinds for the sale.

Tea was served following the meeting by Mrs. H. J. Stevenson, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. J. Mitchell and Mrs. J. Wyper.

We are ever to enjoy our home, NOW is the time—not tomorrow, nor next year. Today can be the most opportune time to prepare. Don't be delayed by the uncertainties of scarce mortgage money for a new home. Decide now to make your present home more liveable and lasting with a home improvement loan. Add a room—make liveable space in attic or basement, new closets, new kitchen cabinets, plumbing fixtures, floor tiles; re-cover cracked plaster with attractive wallboards. You'll find it's cheaper to modernize, and monthly repayments can include cost of labor, electrical, plumbing, etc. Call and get details on our budget plan for home owners.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

West had a mighty good double of South's one no-trump overcall. Obviously, South was fooling around and ought to be punished.

East suspected that South was going to run to one of the minor suits and decided to show his good six-card spade suit by taking out his partner's double.

When South rebid to two no-trump and West doubled again, East saw no reason to take this one out. He still suspected that South would run to diamonds or clubs, but maybe South was a trifle crazy. Hence East passed.

South was crazy like a fox. He passed also.

West saw no better lead than his queen of spades and East signaled enthusiastically with the jack. South won with his king, claimed his seven diamond tricks for his contract, and blithely conceded the last five.

Opening lead—♠ Q

The defence could have picked off the first seven tricks if East had taken the opening lead and gone after the hearts and clubs, but that would have been small consolation for the loss of the easy major-suit game.

West should have realized the possibility of a "diamond no-trump" and also should have visualized a sure vulnerable game. Hence, he should have jumped to four spades instead of doubling. South might have taken the save at five diamonds, but at least East and West would have realized a nice profit on their good cards.

JACK BENNY HOSTS SHOWER OF STARS ON C-11, 12 AT 8.30

John Kerr, Piper Laurie in 90 Minute Drama, C-11 at 9.30

HORNETS' NEST—In Tuesday's column we stated that an informal survey conducted recently by us showed that few Victorians had trouble with CHEK-TV interference; that is, either the new station had not interfered unduly with reception from Seattle's Channel 5 or set owners had been able to cut it out by various means.

What a hornets' nest that upset.

Shortly after the paper appeared the telephones began to jingle and jangle, both at our home and at the paper. They've been ringing away on and off ever since.

Simply, the irked callers didn't agree with the result of the survey. Interference? There was gobs of it, they said.

Most interesting thing to note was that the callers came not only from the "stricken" area near the transmitter site in Saanich, but from most parts of Greater Victoria area.

Most of those phoning said that if we wished they could get "hundreds more" to phone us with their complaints.

★ ★ ★

Why hadn't they written in with their complaints when originally asked by the column? Oh, there was Christmas and they were busy; or they thought "plenty of others would, so I didn't bother," or "I would have but then I thought, what good would it do?"

★ ★ ★

MANY OF THE callers declared that they had tried various types of traps without success.

Others said they had only partial success—that is, they could trap out video interference but not the audio.

Some claimed that Channel 6 not only interfered with reception from Channel 5, but with reception from Channel 4, 11 and even 2. One bluntly asserted that Channel 6 "completely wiped us out, except for a very shaky 6.' She said she lived in the James Bay area.

Very few vented their spleen on the station or its owners. Mostly all thought that Victoria should have a television outlet, but were most caustic in their remarks concerning the allocation of the channel. Why, they wanted to know, couldn't Victoria have been granted another channel or, failing that, be allowed to place a transmitter in a location where it was guaranteed not to interfere with reception from tried and true channels?

All of which we found most enlightening and thought we would pass it on to you.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

FRIDAY, JAN. 11, 1957

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel!
What you make of your life is largely up to you."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Be just as practical as you like now. Look and see if your bank account and property are increasing at a rate which suits you. If not, now you have fine day to pitch in and make real headway. But forget flights of fancy and be basic, sound.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Well, you've rarely been inspired with as much good ideas for gaining your personal desires today. Early get all dolled up in your most attractive apparel, meet everyone possible. Let them know just what you want. Then get it . . . now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Busy yourself today acquiring that information you need, consulting with experts in their own fields, and quietly planning joint expansion with intimates. You will find in your newspaper, periodicals, etc., the exact data you need. Use wisely.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Ardent admirers, firm friends, warm well-wishers, energetic experts all unite to bring your hopes and wishes right into the orb of your influence. Let others see you value their good will by coming to real meeting of minds with them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—All kind of worldly success awaits you by doing a good job of whatever now is your duty or holds your practical attention. Forego wishful thinking and get into worldly, career, credit problems. You can win out in impressing all others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Growth to new heights of mental power, discrimination and charm now in the palm of your hand if you listen to understand what experts have to suggest. Stop being so critical and talking so much, and get advice from those who know their stuff.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Using that meticulousness, ability at details, neat touch and fine finish with which you are so talented and endowed makes your financial and/or emotional well-being greatly enhanced. Be truly co-operative and results suit you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Discussing frankly and openly with partners, friends, companions and relatives, as well as business associates, what you have in mind, brings unexpected results, generous support and backing. Accept in spirit given and return at once for good results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Now you've got a day to work, work, work. You are a perfectionist at heart even though you look to motives as well. Today fine for getting every item of work at home, office, in the outside world as you wish it to be. Plod away.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You have more practical ideas for ways to be successful, to have a creative outlet for your talents, to have romantic happiness and social success than for some time past. Start into action whatever attracts you in any of these ways.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—You can start an upswing soon by making sure you attend to all of the behind-the-scenes duties which are necessary for you to do. Get out of the public eye and build a firm foundation right now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is your day to dash about seeing everyone possible—whether in business, family, personal contacts—or to gain information that you need. Keep on the go. If you have to be indoors, at office, etc., study, increase knowledge. Write.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

Friday's child is one of those very charming youngsters who will have a considerable amount of magnetism and who will be inclined to do things "the easy way," and to accept favors given unless you early teach him or her that only what one earns with the effort personally put forth brings happiness, success and honors. Very dynamically successful efforts of a practical nature are bound to meet with assistance from those able to forward this child's ambitions. Train and educate accordingly.

J. M. STANSBY DEAD

Aldermen To Honor Civic Official

Victoria council public works committee will pause in its agenda at its first meeting next week to pass a resolution of sympathy to the widow of long-time city employee James Middleton Stansby.

Works chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney today praised the 26 years of devoted service to Victoria of Mr. Stansby who died here on Christmas Eve.

Funeral services were held last week, followed by cremation.

Mr. Stansby died in his 64th year. Born in Norwich, England, he came here in 1913 and resided at 5453 Parker.

LONG ILLNESS

At the time when the city engineering department handled its own accounts, Mr. Stansby was chief accountant. In recent years he has been general administrator of the office, a duty he vigorously carried out despite a long illness.

He left the city to serve in the RCAF during the Second World War, returning at the end of his service.

Mr. Stansby was a member of Columbia Lodge No. 1, AF & AM, the Royal Canadian Air Force Association and a charter member of the Toastmasters.

The deceased was survived by his wife Helen, at home; three daughters, Mrs. William Sowler, Mrs. Ernest Marsh, Miss Marilyne Stansby; a sister, Mrs. A. J. Ashdown and two grandchildren, all of Victoria.

A brother and three sisters live in England.

DIETING IS A LAUGH

The Fat Boys Resented Me

(This is the fourth of a series of five articles by the well-known motion picture, television and night club comedian, Jack Leonard. In these articles Mr. Leonard reveals how he reduced his weight from 330 pounds to 205—a weight loss of 125 pounds—by dieting.)

By JACK LEONARD

I won the Battle of the Body Bulge singlehanded. Don't get me wrong. I'm no hero. One of my favorite gags is that I tried to get out of Selective Service on the grounds that I was a devout coward. But if you want to feel like a hero—reduce.

You'll get the same feeling if you lose five or ten pounds as I got losing 125. It's wonderful to discover that humans are shrinkable. Who wouldn't shrink on the diet I was on?

I have a battle log. When I got to the doctor last November (1955) I weighed 329½. I'd taken off about ten pounds before that through sheer agony but chances were if I hadn't gone to a doctor I'd have lost my mind before I lost any pounds.

Well, by the end of December I was down to 303—twenty-six and a half pounds gone. Not bad for a beginner.

For January it was 292, a drop of eleven. February I hit 275, seventeen gone. March I was 261, fourteen less. April it was 244—seventeen gone. May was 229, fifteen dropped. June 215—fourteen gone. July I hit 204—a grand total of 125½ dropped. Since then it's been give and take a pound here or there. The important thing for me, the doctor says, is to stay under 210.

A lot of wise guys say, "Sure—it's easy for a fat boy like you to lose weight—it's not so easy for a person who's just overweight to do it." Well, the way the doctor explained it to me, it's a relative thing. Take me. Weighing 335 I needed over 3,600 calories a day just to keep that weight up. Put me on a 1,200 calorie diet and I'm getting a third of what I needed for that weight. Put a normal person who needs about 2,400 calories a day on a 1,200 diet and he's getting half what he needs. So maybe in the long run—or the early part of the run, rather—I'll lose weight faster—but remember, I have a lot more losing to do.

FINDS "FATTIES" RESENTFUL

It's the fatties, in fact, who make dieting really tough.

They're the hecklers. I met a guy the other day, weighing about 270 pounds, and he said, "Jack, you look like you need a good meal." I said, "I had thirty years of good meals—and now I'm going to live to enjoy them."

The fat guys resent you. There I was, at 240, proud of shaving off ninety pounds, and this pal says, "Better go on a diet. That's too much for you to carry around." Then there are the wise guys who send you a strawberry shortcake with their compliments, or boxes of candy.

But I can take those hecklers. I learned the hard way. For years I walked around with 330 or 340 pounds, take or leave it, and I'd never leave anything that was edible. But when you get past the forty mark, it really catches up with you. You start to ache all over and it gets tougher to get out of bed, it gets tougher to walk, everything gets tougher. I was always a very active fellow, a good athlete in my youth, with a big bone structure, and I could carry the load. But as the years go on, something has to go — and it was almost me. At the rate I was going, I would have had a whole cemetery all to myself.

So I knuckled down and my wife pitched in. And looking back, I guess my wife was the real hero of that war.

AT HAWAII JAN. 16

Food Intake Up As Seas Moderate

(Ex-navy officer Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Daily Times, is aboard HMCS Ontario for the first leg of a three-month training cruise. His dispatches are being filed by wirelese from the ship.)

By STUART KEATE

ON BOARD HMCS ONTARIO —Wind decreased to a modest 25 knots and water warmed up, from 47 to 55 degrees, as the training squadron of Her Majesty's Canadian Ships Ontario, Jonquiere and Stettler headed west for Hawaii today.

"Fine by Friday" seems to be the slogan of ships companies, whose food intake showed a sharp increase as the seas moderated.

On board Ontario are 59 officers, 82 cadets and 530 men for a complement of 672. There are 12 officers, 16 cadets and 132 men on the frigate Jonquiere and 12 officers, 16 cadets and 141 men in Stettler, making a total of precisely 1,000 Canadians in the three ships.

By the time they return to Victoria, May 3, they will have steamed 18,000 miles and expended 4,300 tons of fuel oil.

FIVE DAYS

Complete itinerary of the Canadian warships has not been completed. The ships land at Hilo, the Hawaiian capital, next Wednesday, Jan. 16, for a visit of five days, proceeding thence to Pearl Harbor for a stopover at the famed U.S. naval base. Later they go on to Guam, in the Marianas, and then to the Far East.

In an address to the ship's company of Ontario today the training staff urged attendance at instructional classes, pointing out the possibilities for advancement and promotion to petty officer rank during the four-month training cruise.

B.Sc. DEGREE

"Educational opportunities in the services have never been as good as they are today," the capatin remarked, "It is possible to get a B.Sc. degree through the navy absolutely free of charge but not free of work."

Emergency boat drills were carried out Wednesday afternoon. Second in a series of J. Arthur Rank movies was shown at night, the ship's canteen having purchased 30 films for showing to the troops during the 70 evenings at sea.

Jack Hawkins is perfectly cast as Inspector Halliday and plays his part to perfection. One of those "Not to be Missed."

'Hold-Line' Policy Urged on City Works

New chairman of city council's public works committee, Ald. M. H. Mooney, today proposed a schedule of strict maintenance for roads, drains and sewers in 1957 with a minimum of expansion.

He said he will follow the policy adopted last year of gradual renewal of all works services.

"No widespread programs of new development should be undertaken," he stated.

"We are now engaged in road, sewer and drain depreciation replacement programs. Residents will have to understand that in time all neighborhoods will benefit from it."

The alderman issued a statement listing his opinions on various items of civic business which are bound to come up this year.

TELL THE PEOPLE

He said each alderman should take opportunity to explain his stand each year, as an account of his stewardship to the people who elected him. (In Esquimalt and Oak Bay, councillors each address ratepayers at annual election meetings. But in the city, by custom, only the mayor gives an inaugural address.)

Ald. Mooney favors a pay-as-you-go policy and further cutting of the per capita debt.

"I want to see Point Ellice Bridge constructed as soon as possible, logging of special sections of Thetis Lake Park and use of the monies received for development of the park."

NEW CITY HALL

He wants to see more city-owned property sold and funds used for a capital expansion program including a new fire hall, city hall, garbage disposal system and repair and storage yards.

"I believe we should investigate whether there is a better way of raising tax money than the trade licence, but if we make a move I want to know in detail what other form of taxation we may use."

He promised to revive two campaigns which he fought and lost last year — a back-yard clean-up drive where city trucks would cart away unwanted junk not normally taken by garbage trucks, and institution of a new bicycle licensing system.

Under his plan only one licence would be issued to a bicycle. It would be permanent and each sale of a bike would require re-registration, but at no charge.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Third Victoria Group committee met at the home of Scouter Andy Sinclare. A paper drive was planned for Jan. 19, arrangements being made for the disposal of two truck loads. Members of the committee are arranging to move the equipment to the new meeting place on Kings Road. At a "Court of Honor" meeting of the patrol leaders it was decided to give the low patrol a whisk broom that can be attached to the patrol leaders stave to show that they are the ones that need pepping up.

Troop scouters should not forget the "Green Plume" meeting Thursday evening at headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, at 8 p.m. It is important as the first class journey of a Scout will be discussed.

Fiftieth Group, St. George's — Brian Tobin was invested as a Wolf Cub by Akela Mary Hunter at the regular meeting Tuesday and Nigel Good was welcomed as a new chum. R. W. Good, a parent of one of the boys, gave boxing instruction.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Kathleen Six, aged 13, of Aldan, Penn., for her question:

What Is Chicory?

Imagine a daisy and a salad marching clear across our continent. That is not some fanciful idea that Alice in Wonderland dreamed up. In a way, it really happened. The chicory plant is a member of the daisy family. In Europe it is considered a salad delicacy. Chicory was introduced into North America where most people consider it a weed. Nothing daunted, this salad-daisy took the highways and the byways of the United States and Southern Canada and spread from the east coast to the west. So far, it has avoided only the deserts of the southwest.

You have certainly seen chicory decking the roadsides through the summer months. Its erect, hairy stalks stand anywhere from table level to the height of a fifth grader. Its heavenly blue flowers are round and flat as saucers. They may be one and a half inches across and the single blossoms are dotted here and there up the stiff stems. Do you remember now this wild flower that you mistook for a weed among the wild flowers?

The lower leaves of the chicory plant look like they belong to a dandelion. The French, who are wonderful cooks, relish these leaves in salads. The fleshy taproots of chicory are also eaten. They are stored and eaten as winter salads. The roots of one variety of chicory, the witloof, are boiled and eaten as buttered vegetable. This chicory is known as the French endive. And, indeed, our chicory weed is really a relative of the fancy salad endive. Animals, too, enjoy chicory. In Europe it is even grown as a fodder plant.

What a useful plant that traveling weed of ours turned out to be! But that is not all of it. The roots of chicory have a still more useful trick. They can fake, or almost fake, the flavor of coffee. For this job, the roots are gathered, cleaned, dried and chomped into powder. Chicory powder is sometimes used as a coffee substitute. In boiling water it looks, smells and tastes very like strong, bitter coffee. More often it is mixed with powdered coffee. Not only is it an inexpensive way to stretch out the coffee supply. It adds color and body to the brew. Some people say that chicory adds a bitter flavor when added to coffee. Other people like their coffee that way.

Chicory was brought to North America by Europeans who liked their coffee strong and a tang to their salads. Then it seems to have been neglected. But some of the seedlings escaped and took root in the light sandy soils along the road sides. A few farmers still cultivate it, even force its roots for endive salads. But most have forgotten it as food crop. In the meantime, year by year, the useful, pretty immigrant looked after itself. It spread and spread until now it is a familiar roadside wild flower almost everywhere.

* * *

Andy sends a Hammond Ambassador World Atlas to Richard Reichman, age 16, of Milwaukee, Wis., for his question:

Does Andy have an age limit for answering questions?

Andy gets questions from people of all ages. However, he limits his answers to certain age groups. He is most interested in the questions of young people. So far he has not answered a question for any person less than five years old or for anyone older than 16 years. So at 16 years you are just within his age limits and will be there until you reach 17.

This question gives Andy a chance to give a special reminder to his readers. Almost everyone who writes to him remembers to spell out their name. Most people also remember to write out their address in full. But so many forget to say how old they are. This is too bad. For Andy cannot select a question from some person who may be way outside his age limits. So, everybody, please remember to include the name, address and age along with that question to Andy.

End-Strike Plan Pressed By St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP) — An immediate and temporary settlement of the CPR firemen's strike followed by a government-sponsored inquiry is being passed upon the disputants by the government, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

OVATION

President Eisenhower smiles and waves a hand as he acknowledges the applause today at the end of his state of the union address before a joint session of Congress in Washington. (AP Wirephoto.)

The temporary settlement would be about the same as that reached by the CNR with its firemen last year, the prime minister told the Commons.

The CNR gave its employees staggered wage increases totalling 11 per cent and dropped a proposal similar to the CPR's for reducing the number of firemen in its diesel locomotive operations.

The government's proposal followed along the lines of one made by the Canadian Labor Congress last weekend, except that the inquiry body would be independent while the CLC's idea was that union and management would be represented on it.

FINDINGS NOT BINDING

The prime minister indicated the findings of his proposed board would not be formally binding, though he suggested they would constitute some form of "obligation" on the disputants.

Mr. St. Laurent said he is convinced the only issue now is whether there should be a contractual undertaking to accept the board's findings.

"The objection of the union is that this is tantamount to their acceptance of compulsory arbitration," he said. "The objection of the railway to that not being a contractual undertaking now in that, if they do not make it a contractual undertaking, the dispute could start all over again.

"I have been urging that this is not a realistic view to take. If there is a thorough investigation and report, neither side is going to attempt after that to hold out on an obligation that will have been recommended after a full investigation by a board that would be constituted in such a way as to have considerable prestige with Canadian public opinion."

NO MEETING YET

CPR President N. R. Crump commented:

"I am told the prime minister . . . described as unrealistic the view that an investigation by a board whose findings would not be binding would leave the diesel issue open to a new strike.

"However, I am glad to note the prime minister's view that no strike would be possible on the diesel issue after the findings of the board of inquiry."

Mr. Crump said that up to early afternoon he had not been in touch either with the government or the striking union.

Frank H. Hall of Montreal, chairman of the general conference committee representing 124,000 employees of the major railways, expressed satisfaction with the government plan.

"If a settlement can be reached along the lines outlined by the prime minister," he said, "I think all concerned should be congratulated. It will be a good thing for all the CPR employees and for the country."

VARIOUS WAYS

Mr. St. Laurent in reply to questions from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, said that the board proposed by the government could be set up in various ways.

It could be constituted under the federal labor code, or there could be a royal commission. He indicated the government does not favor using the federal board of transport commissioners—which regulates the railways—because of the heavy volume of work already before it.

Gordon Report To Hit Power, Wheat Policy

140-Page Document Due Later Today

OTTAWA (CP) — The Gordon commission report, to be unveiled late today, will contain at least two proposals representing radical departures from present government policy.

One deals with wheat, the other with power.

Informants said the 140-page document, forecasting Canada's economic future, definitely will contain a scheme for curbing prairie wheat surpluses by imposing long-range marketing quotas on farmers.

It also is expected to propose that the government relax its present stiff curbs on hydro power exports and encourage increased shipments to the United States to help balance a heavy deficit in U.S. trade.

$50 Million Arts Fund Law Ready

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary stage was set by the government today for introduction of legislation to set up a Canada Council to promote the arts and establish a $50,000,000 fund to aid universities.

There was no discussion in the Commons on a government resolution providing for establishment of the council, which is to be given $50,000,000 to encourage the arts, humanities and social sciences.

The council also will establish a $50,000,000 university capital grants fund out of which monies will be distributed to universities through the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

Legislation embodying the two proposals will be introduced in the Commons later.

NEW PRIME MINISTER ARRIVES AT PALACE

Queen Makes Surprise Appointment

LONDON (Reuters) — Harold Macmillan, staunch defender of Britain's Suez policy, today succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister.

The change in government followed Eden's announcement Wednesday night that he was giving up office because of ill health.

After receiving his new appointment from the Queen at Buckingham Palace, Macmillan ruled out the possibility of an immediate general election.

This was called for Wednesday night by Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, who is on a tour in the United States.

Macmillan's appointment caught Londoners by surprise. Spectators at the Palace thought Butler was arriving. As his car came closer they said, "Oh, it's Macmillan."

Macmillan, chancellor of the exchequer in the Eden cabinet, told reporters at 10 Downing Street when asked if there would be a general election:

"No. When there is one, we will win it."

In May, 1955, six weeks after Eden took office, the Conservative party won a mandate from the electorate for a five-year term.

Politicians interpreted Macmillan's appointment as a sign that the government leadership will continue to defend the Anglo-French armed intervention in Egypt.

It touched off speculation that Macmillan will seek a quick meeting with President Eisenhower, probably in Washington.

Macmillan also faces the job of strengthening Commonwealth bonds strained by Eden's Middle East policies.

Finally, he must cope with an economic crisis heightened by the British-French military intervention in Egypt and the closing of the Suez Canal.

Butler's Future Role Uncertain

Macmillan, who will be 63 next month, has been in active politics for 33 years and has occupied many ministerial posts including that of foreign secretary for a short time before becoming chancellor of the exchequer.

There was no immediate indication whether Macmillan would ask R. A. Butler, one of the most experienced ministers in the Conservative party, to remain in the government.

Butler, whom many politicians overnight had figured as Eden's successor, is lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons.

The choice of Macmillan is a disappointment to the more liberal-minded elements. They regard Butler as a more progressive figure capable of keeping party policy abreast of 20th-century changes in outlook.

There have been strong reports that Butler, inside the cabinet, opposed the Eden policy of armed action in Egypt.

On the other hand politicians have no doubts about the "true blue" orthodox conservatism of Macmillan, product of Eton College, ex-Guards officer and biting critic of socialism.

Today Butler was one of the first to go to Downing Street to congratulate the new prime minister.

He told reporters on the way: "I wish Mr. Macmillan the greatest possible success."

Asked about his own future, he said: "I have no plans as yet."

Of Eden, he said: "I have been deeply anxious over his health, and I hope he makes a complete recovery very soon."

The Queen, before announcing her choice, called in Sir Winston Churchill and the Marquess of Salisbury, two of the ranking Conservative leaders. They likely recommended Macmillan over Butler.

(In British tradition, the outgoing prime minister usually recommends his successor to the Queen, so that it is assumed Sir Anthony recommended Mr. Macmillan.)

The bushy-moustached new premier is the son of a Scottish father and an American mother and is head of the publishing house which bears his name.

As treasury chief during the Suez crisis, he increased the gasoline tax, called for tighter economic measures and threatened an income tax increase.

A choice of the Conservative party's right wing, the new premier is married to Lady Dorothy Cavendish, daughter of the ninth Duke of Devonshire. They have four children.

Macmillan, who went to Canada in 1919 as aide-de-camp to the Duke of Devonshire, then governor-general, travelled to Buckingham Palace this afternoon to receive the Queen's designation of him as her first minister.

GUESSED WRONG

About 200 persons pressing against the railings of the palace seemed surprised when Macmillan's car wheeled into the courtyard. A few seeing the car coming toward the palace had shouted: "Here comes Butler." Then as the car came closer they gasped: "Oh, its Macmillan."

Macmillan showed no emotion as he reached the palace. He sat in the front seat of a small black car with the driver.

Buckingham Palace announced: "The Queen received the Right Hon. Harold Macmillan MP in audience this afternoon and offered him the post of prime minister and first lord of the treasury.

"Mr. Macmillan accepted Her Majesty's offer and kissed hands upon his appointment."

Macmillan spent 20 minutes in the palace.

The phrase "kissed hands" referred to the ceremonial acceptance by Macmillan of the Queen's command.

Churchill has called him a "man of fearless intelligence." They worked together against Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler and Mussolini, and Churchill in the Second World War appointed him secretary of the minstry of supply. There he helped build Britain's great war arsenal. Later he was in the colonial ministry.

IKE WARNS U.S.

Isolation Invites War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that U.S. prosperity is at "an unprecented peak." But, referring to the danger of Communist aggression, he said "a strongly armed imperialistic dictatorship poses a continuing threat" to the free world.

In his State of the Union message, prepared for a joint Senate-House of Representatives session, the president said that "at no time in the history of the republic have circumstances more emphatically underscored the need in all echelons of government, for vision and wisdom and resolution."

Eisenhower said, "America alone and isolated cannot assure even its own security."

He added the United States "must be joined by the capability and resolution of nations that have proved themselves dependable defenders of freedom." Isolation from such nations would invite war.

In the foreign field, Eisenhower said the United States is "willing to enter any reliable agreement which would reverse the trend toward ever more devastating nuclear weapons."

This was the first time Eisenhower has mentioned publicly international control against devastating missiles and satellite devices.

CONSIDERED RIGHT-WINGER BY LABOR

New British Prime Minister Self-Styled 'Liberal-Tory'

LONDON (CP) — Harold Macmillan is a cartoonist's delight with his sad and drooping eyes and his large grizzled moustache.

He calls himself a "Liberal Tory." The Labor party considers him an extreme right-winger. In the years between the world wars he was a vigorous advocate of social reform.

Macmillan is a product of Eton and Oxford's Balliol College. He knows Latin, Greek and French in addition to his free-flowing and sometimes Churchillian English and has what he calls a "smattering" of other languages.

A Grenadier Guardsman in the First World War, he was wounded three times. Waiting for 12 hours once on a French battlefield for first aid, he passed the time reading a play in Greek.

In the Second World War he was for three years British minister-resident in the Mediterranean theatre.

He was born in 1894. His mother was an American, daughter of J. Carleton Belles of Spencer, Ind.

In 1919 he went to Canada as aide-de-camp to the Duke of Devonshire, then governor-general. The next year he married the duke's daughter, Lady Dorothy Cavendish.

Macmillan then became a director of the publishing firm which bears his family name.

He won his first seat in the House of Commons in 1923, lost it in 1929, then represented his constituency from 1931 onwards.

As wartime minister-resident in the Mediterranean theatre, he was credited with doing much to smooth out jealousies among the French leaders, and establishing good relations with United States forces. He worked with Gen. Eisenhower when the latter commanded allied forces in North Africa.

He has held various posts since the Conservative government came to power in 1951. He was made foreign secretary in April, 1955, and chancellor of the exchequer the following December. His party acclaimed him most when as minister of housing from 1951 to 1954 he put through the government's program of building 300,000 houses a year.

In 1953 he underwent a gall bladder operation from which he made a speedy recovery.

Diehard Conservatives of the old school have always mistrusted him, for he is an intellectual, a political philosopher who has written books on his theories.

Talk with Eisenhower On Tap for Macmillan?

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials today welcomed the appointment of Harold Macmillan as Britain's new Prime Minister. He is regarded as a friend of the United States who will work for improvement in United States-British relations.

Macmillan probably will be invited to come to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower early in the year.

Eisenhower had rebuffed efforts by former Prime Minister Eden to visit Washington immediately after the United States-British split over Egypt, but high officials said Macmillan would be made welcome whenever he wants to come.

Dulles Opposes Slowdown on Mid-East Plan

Criticizes Efforts of Democrats To Stall Force-for-Peace Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said Wednesday the proposed Democratic substitute for the administration's Middle East program wouldn't do the job.

He said it would fail to grant President Eisenhower "any authority" for the use of armed forces to protect a Middle Eastern state against Communist armed attack.

Dulles made an assault on the "short term" resolution which was passed along by Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem., Tex.) of the House of Representatives as the work of a prominent Democrat Rayburn would not identify.

The secretary's criticism came shortly after Senator W. Kerr Scott (Dem., N.C.) told the Senate that Dulles — whom Scott described as "the champion quick-change artist when it comes to diplomacy"—should resign in the interests of national security.

"If the president expects to keep his country on an even keel in foreign affairs," Scott said, "then he must have a secretary of state who generates confidence instead of confusion."

Scott linked his criticism to President Eisenhower's proposal, pushed by Dulles, that Congress authorize the President to use American armed forces if necessary to block Communist aggression in the Middle East.

The substitute proposal would say this instead: "The United States regards as vital to her interest the preservation of the independence and integrity of the Middle East and, if necessary, will use her armed forces to that end."

Dulles testified before the House foreign affairs committee. Some information on his testimony was given out immediately afterward. Early Wednesday night the state department released its own account.

Dulles said the Democratic proposal "could be interpreted" as designed to establish a United States "protectorate" over the Middle East without regard to the wishes of the countries themselves "and as such it might well be resented in the area."

The Democratic resolution "would not limit" the use of U.S. forces in the Middle East to "defence against armed attack, which under Article 51 of the United Nations charter is the basis for collective self-defence."

COVERS ALL ATTACKS

He said the resolution "seems to call for United States armed action to preserve the integrity of all the Middle East states not merely against a Communist attack but against any external attack." For this reason, Dulles asserted, the resolution—had it been in force—might have required American military intervention "in the fighting which occurred last year." Presumably he referred to the attacks on Egypt by Israel, Britain and France.

The Democratic resolution "would seem to call for military action to overthrow a regime brought into power from without even though no violence were used." Dulles said this raised the question of the conformity of such action with U.S. obligations under the UN charter.

Hanna Entry Plea Rejected By Pickersgill

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill said today he knows of no reason for giving special consideration to an application for entry to Canada from a man marooned aboard a Norwegian freighter currently visiting Vancouver Island.

He referred in the Commons to Christain Hanna, who has spent the last 15 months aboard the freighter Gudveig because no country will accept him as an immigrant.

Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Esquimalt-Saanich) asked why Canada has refused admission to the "unfortunate young man."

Mr. Pickersgill said Hanna is "in no way admissible" under the Immigration Act. At least four or five requirements of the act would have to be set aside to let him in.

Hanna has no known nationality, apparently one of the main reasons no country will allow him entry.

Mr. Pickersgill, without going into detail, said that from the man's past record he thinks "it is very unlikely that he will spend the rest of his life in any one place."

Persons in much worse circumstances than Hanna had been refused admittance to Canada because of requirements in the Immigration Act. Hanna's admittance "can certainly not be justified on any merits that I can see."

2 Years in Jail For Possessing Burglary Tools

Frank Ellis, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to two years in jail after his conviction earlier this week on a charge of possessing housebreaking tools.

He was arrested in the yard of a local bottling works late one night last week, with a screwdriver and gloves on his person. He had climbed a high fence to gain access to the property, police said.

Condition of Dean McKinnon, 1547 Yale, injured when the car in which he was riding turned over on a slippery Saanich street shortly after 8 a.m. today, is good, St. Joseph's Hospital reported at 1 p.m.

Nature of his injury or whether he was driving the car was not available.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS IRREGULARITIES

Insurance Policy on Sculptor Not Security—Auditor-General

OTTAWA (CP) — Auditor-General Watson Sellar has uncovered another crop of irregularities in government accounts but on the whole he finds the books in good order.

The public accounts for the 1955-56 fiscal year were tabled in the Commons Wednesday and they include Mr. Sellar's report, which states at the beginning: "Thousands upon thousands of transactions were reviewed and it is satisfying to be able to report that only a handful require notice to be now taken of them."

Among this handful:

1. The government insured the life of sculptor Frances Loring for $10,000—it paid the $1,126 premium—while she was working on the $50,000 statue of former Conservative Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden, unveiled here Monday. The works department took out the policy under the section calling for sufficient security to be taken by the government until a contract is finished. Mr. Sellar says a life insurance policy is hardly security and that the premium was not deductible from the contract.

2. Six years ago, the defence department decided to instal underground steam distribution systems at 30 camps. Major repairs have since been necessary at 14 of these stations, chiefly because of faulty design. Original contracts at the 14 camps were worth $6,000,000 and estimated cost of repairs came to $1,218,500.

3. In 1954, navy officers, without authorization from the defence production department, encouraged a manufacturer to spend money to develop a boat davit. The defence department later instructed defence production to buy the type of davits developed, but the firm was not the successful bidder. It sought compensation and the government now has offered to pay the firm $34,000, including five-per-cent profit.

4. A civil servant signed an agreement to return to his job after being given leave to attend university. He didn't honor the agreement but was paid $8,000 half salary for his three years at college, was reimbursed his $1,644 contribution to the superannuation account and given $858 in lieu of retirement leave.

Pipeline Financing Target Date

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says that Jan. 22 is the target date for the offering of the last of the financing of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. It adds that a total of $120,000,000, making up the last of the $370,000,000 required for the Alberta-to-Montreal pipeline is to be offered—in the form of $150 units—in the ratio of $100 principal amount of subordinate debentures due in 30 years, and $50 representing five common shares at $10 apiece.

The Star says the United States securities and exchange commission is going over the financing details and "it is expected that approval may come within the next two weeks."

Offering of $144,000,000 in first mortgage bonds, the paper adds, is still going on.

McMahon Appointed Royal Bank Director

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank M. McMahon of Calgary today was elected a director of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. McMahon is chairman of Pacific Petroleums Ltd., president of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., and an officer or director in several other Western oil and natural-gas companies.

Can. Oil Companies Pay 20-Cent Dividend

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. Wednesday declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on its common stock, payable Feb. 15 to shareholders of record Jan. 31.

This compares with 15 cents a share in preceding quarters and puts the annual dividend on a basis of 80 cents a share, compared with the previous 60 cents.

Extended Credit Controls Predicted By Bank President

MONTREAL (CP)—Monetary and credit controls may need to be extended to wider areas than they cover at present, James Muir, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said today in his address to the bank's annual meeting.

Over the years, said Mr. Muir, such an abundance of other forms of credit creation has arisen that the supply of credit may move completely opposite to the direction which official monetary policy attempts to induce.

"It may be taking too positive a view of a distant scene," he added, "but it would at least appear that, in order to be fair and to achieve the best results, monetary policy and credit control may have to embrace a wider area of our financial world than it now does."

INFLATIONARY PRESSURE

There were at least two sources of inflationary pressure which the central bank, with its present power, would find it difficult to reach.

One lay in the capital funds market. In a condition where interest rates were rising and were expected to rise still further, some borrowers floated capital issues to provide cash balances which they might need later.

"What we have," said Mr. Muir, "is a sort of panic to get money now for fear it will not be available later."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Algoma Steel Jumps 5¼ Points to 118½

Algoma Steel featured trading on the Toronto stock market today as industrials spurted ahead amid moderate dealings.

Western oils, after being stalled temporarily by profit-taking, surged ahead and base metals picked up a little ground.

Algoma Steel climbed 5¼ points to 118½. Steels in general were strong.

New York market saw prices higher but below their best in some cases and trading was quiet. Pivotal stocks had gains of fractions to around 2 points. Leading rails made a number of small gains.

At Toronto International Paper and Interprovincial Pipe Line were two-point winners among other industrials. Losses were generally fractional although Trans Prairie Pipe Line and Great Lakes Paper dipped a point.

International Nickel advanced 1½ points among senior base metals. Consolidated Denison featured the uranium section with a 1⅜-point climb in heavy trading. Western oils were traded in narrow range. Canada Oil Lands added 20 cents but Canadian Pipelines and Triad dipped 20 cents.

AT NEW YORK Canadian stocks on the upside included McIntyre, up 1½, Aluminum Ltd. 1¼, Distillers Seagrams ¾, Walker-Gooderham ½, Canadian Pacific ⅜, and Dome Mines and Granby Mining ⅛ each. Hudson Bay Mining dropped one point.

Canadian stocks on the American Stock Exchange were mixed. Among higher issues, Shawinigan gained ½, Preston East Dome ¼ and Fargo Oil, Scurry-Rainbow Oil and Wilrich Petroleums each added 1/16. Lower were Loblaw, off ½, Brazilian Traction, off ⅛, and Jupiter Oils, both down 1/16.

AT MONTREAL gains held a narrow edge over losses in quiet industrial trade. Most price changes were fractional.

AT LONDON prices were steadier today after early uncertainty following Sir Anthony Eden's resignation as prime minister.

Many of the early falls were reduced or eliminated.

The acceptance of the prime ministership by Harold Macmillan had no great effect on the market but gilt-edged stocks took on a steadier appearance toward the close after moving erratically during the session.

AT VANCOUVER oils and mines were active with prices firmer. Futurity sold 7,000 at 47. National Explorations went to 57 on a sale of 10,300.

GRAIN QUOTATIONS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain dealings continued on the dull side today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange with commercial interest limited.

However, there was some activity in flax where exporters and U.S. houses were buyers. There were indications of some small overseas sales. light hedging sales were in evidence and prices showed a firm tone.

Oats and barley trading was mostly modest domestic shipping purchases. Prices moved in narrow limits.

Lakehead prices of class two, IWA and domestic wheat were down ⅛ from Wednesday.

There was no information on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

LOST: ONE CRUISER FROM B.C. SHIPYARD

VANCOUVER — Police said Wednesday they are searching for a $2,100 cabin cruiser, stolen from a shipyard here.

Boat-owner J. W. Robson said he took a "prospective buyer" for a trial spin two weeks before Christmas. The man did not leave his name and failed to show up later that day as promised.

Robson said he left Vancouver the next day for a vacation in Hawaii and only discovered the theft on his return.

42-Cent Hourly Wage Increase Sought by Painters' Union Here

A 42-cent-an-hour wage increase is being asked by 224 painters in their 1957 working agreement submitted to Victoria contractors.

Twenty-six glassworkers also are asking for the same wage boost from three firms—Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd., O'Neil Glass & Paint Ltd., and Pacific Glass Ltd.

Paperhangers, members of the same union as painters and decorators, Local 1163, are asking for a 52-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The pay increases would raise wages for brush painting to $2.61 an hour, paperhanging to $2.71 an hour, spray painting to $3.11 and spray painting on erected structural steel, $3.36 an hour.

The glass-workers would get $2.35 an hour.

In addition, painters are asking for statutory holidays with pay, and double pay for overtime.

The glass-workers also want double pay for overtime; three weeks holiday with pay after two years' service, and extra pay for working at heights.

Suburbs Should Pay For Arena Addition

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt should bear the brunt of costs of any addition to Memorial Arena according to Alderman Geoffrey I. Edgelow.

Victoria should provide only the property and the ice facilities, he said.

"It is high time the outside municipalities started to recognize the city's problem—that their children are using an arena built with the city's money, and on which the city still owes plenty.

"If we said your children can't skate now, ours are going to skate first, the outside municipalities would suddenly realize that they have a problem themselves. It's time we called a spade, a spade."

MERCY FLIGHT SAVES CHILD

Emergency flight to Vancouver from Tofino hit bad weather Wednesday, forcing PWA Norseman to put down in Victoria harbor. Tiny Andrea Folker, 18 months, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital and is now reported off the critical list. The child suffered head injuries in a fall in her home. She was airborne for two hours. # Road Link Asked

Mayor Announces Plan to Rotary

Mayor Percy Scurrah has asked the Capital Improvement District Commission for funds to cut a new east-west road through Beacon Hill Park.

The mayor told a Rotary Club luncheon today he has asked the CIDC to provide funds for completion of the waterfront beautification project started last year on Dallas Road between Cook and Douglas.

The new road, probably an extension of Michigan Street, "would give a new outlet to about 60 per cent of the people who work at the Parliament Buildings and live east of Cook Street," the mayor said.

He envisaged the east-west road extending from Michigan and Douglas to Heywood Avenue. This would cut off from the rest of the park only a small section which is quite rocky.

Mooney Wants Referendum On Wage Hike

Council will be asked today to hold a referendum on the question of whether civic wage requests should be granted this year.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of public works committee, said he will propose the referendum to a special council meeting.

Admitting final decision on wage requests would probably be decided by a conciliation board if no agreement was reached with the unions, he felt a referendum would nevertheless establish public thinking on the annual round of wage boosts.

A total of $237,000 in increased wages and benefits is being asked this year by police, fire and civic inside and outside workers' unions, according to Mayor Percy Scurrah.

"I think we should take a stand and hold the line," said Ald. Mooney. "We have to if we want to keep taxes down. I think the situation is becoming serious.

"It's such a big problem I go on record as supporting the idea of putting this question direct to the people."

"Let them decide. I think it may cost the city about $400 (the referendum), which I think will be money well-spent."

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Coin Collectors: Art Gallery, 8 p.m. Auction sale will be held.

Victoria Lions: Empress Hotel, noon luncheon. Mayor Percy Scurrah and aldermen will be guests.

'I Didn't Plan To Rob Bank'

Acted on Spur Of Moment, Says Robber

Bank robber Leonard Wilson pleaded guilty and apologized in city police court today for robbing a downtown bank of $1,340 Monday noon.

Eighteen-year-old companion Valeria Jessiman, Duncan, who was picked up by Seattle police with Wilson early Tuesday and faced the same charge of robbery, was released when the charge was withdrawn by prosecutor Alan Bigelow.

Magistrate H. C. Hall adjourned the case against 29-year-old Wilson, a welder, construction worker and professional wrestler of Duncan and Vancouver to Jan. 16 for a probation report.

NO PART

Miss Jessiman, said Mr. Bigelow, had no part in the offence. She left the courtroom, packed to seating and standing capacity by more than 100 spectators, almost immediately after the charge was withdrawn.

Wilson, in a strong, modulated voice, entered his plea of guilty. A few minutes later, after the story of the robbery of Royal Bank of Canada Douglas and Cormorant branch was told by city detective Alex Briggs, Wilson told the court:

"I did walk into that bank, your honor. I'm awfully sorry about it. I'd like to make it up to the bank.

"It was something I did on the spur of the moment. I didn't plan it or anything."

An order for restitution of $856.39 found in Wilson's possession in Seattle was made by Magistrate Hall.

Both principals were dressed well, the six-foot, 200-pound Wilson in a grey suit, his hair combed and face shaven, and auburn-haired Miss Jessiman in a grey topcoat, chartreuse scarf, grey shoes and handbag and wearing pendant pearl earrings.

She appeared older than her 18 years, and looked down or straight ahead from the prisoner's box.

FIDGETY

Wilson was more fidgety and glanced around the court room from time to time.

Detective Briggs, the only witness heard, said Wilson went into the bank shortly before noon Jan. 7 and walked to a counter in the centre of the room.

He wrote on the back of a bank withdrawal slip: "I have a gun. All the large bills, or I'll shoot."

The witness said he showed the note to teller Alma Koppel, standing with a hand in his pocket. She gave him $1,340 in bills of $20 and $10 denomination, and he left the bank.

Wilson walked to the Douglas Hotel, a few hundred yards away, where he was later met by Miss Jessiman, the policeman said.

NO GUN

Asked by the prosecutor if Wilson had a gun in his possession at the time of the offence or when arrested, the detective said no. The imitation of an offensive weapon, stated in the charge, was only his hand, he said.

The charge read that the accused "while armed with an offensive weapon or imitation thereof, to wit a pistol, did steal $1,000 from the Royal Bank of Canada, 1517 Douglas."

CREDIT TO AGENT

Much credit for Wilson's capture goes to TCA traffic agent J. Reid Hannan, who was on duty at Patricia Bay airport when Wilson and Miss Jessiman showed up with minutes to spare for the 2 p.m. flight to Seattle Monday.

They had taken a cab from town—an 18-mile trip—having missed the airport bus. Hannan's suspicions were aroused when Wilson paid the heavy cab fare without complaint, a rare thing for passengers who miss their bus, he said.

The man, who fitted a description given Hannan by Sidney RCMP but wearing different clothing, appeared nervous and frequently wiped his forehead, the agent said.

Const. G. W. King, of Sidney detachment, had been alerted by city police to watch the airport, but when Wilson and Miss Jessiman arrived he had left the airport and returned to Sidney for a court case.

Hannan notified police and Seattle officers took the case from there, observing the couple's actions until taken into custody about 5 a.m. Tuesday.

City detectives Briggs and Gus Munro were sent to Seattle with the bank teller and witness Art Luney, who recalled a man answering Wilson's description bumped him at the door of the bank immediately after the robbery. They picked Wilson from a lineup.

COMPANION OF BANK ROBBER, Valeria Jessiman, cleared of any participation in holdup, is reported to have gone with Wilson to Seattle under impression they were to be married.

SHOWER IN DUNCAN

Girl Planned To Marry Bank Bandit

Friends of 18-year-old Valeria Jessiman, Duncan girl companion of bank robber Leonard Wilson, are quite convinced she left Duncan Sunday with Wilson with the intention of being married in Seattle.

Miss Jessiman had made their plans known, and she had been entertained at least once as a bride-to-be. Their wedding date had been set for last Saturday, but the apparent delay and change of plan were accepted as routine.

Miss Jessiman was an excellent student at Cowichan High School until about a year ago, when she left school and took a job with the B.C. Telephone Co. She lived at a Bundock Street boarding house, where she took care of her younger sister.

A United Church member and former member of the CGIT, she gave a fair amount of her time to youth work. Her parents live in the interior of B.C.

Wilson had been in the district since July 5, first staying at a boarding house, then moving to the home of a friend. He had worked for Commonwealth Construction Co. on a Malahat road reconstruction project.

BANK CONSIDERS REWARD FOR ALERT TCA AGENT

Possibility of a reward for J. Reid Hannan, the TCA official who spotted confessed bank robber Leonard Wilson, is being discussed here today.

The Canadian Bankers' Association maintains a fund to reward those who affect the capture of bank robbers, or supply information leading to their capture. Rewards of up to $5,000 have been given in the past.

The association decides each case on its own merits.

R. R. Wilde, manager of the Royal Bank branch which was held up Monday, said today Mr. Hannan "certainly deserves some recognition."

TIMES JOINS WORLD-WIDE PHOTO SERVICE

Another step forward in improving service for readers was taken today when the Times joined the network of Associated Press Photofax. Under this miracle of electronic progress, news pictures from all over the world come rolling off an automatic machine ready for instant engraving. Here Times news editor Edward McLean takes from the roll the picture of Sir Harold MacMillan as he drove to Buckingham Palace to become Britain's new prime minister. (The picture appears on today's front page.)

MacMillan drove to the palace at 5.45 a.m. Victoria time and by 7.40 a.m. this picture was in the Times office.

I have been trying to avoid this for several weeks. But ever since the remarks in this space anent the spoonerized pun, I have been receiving various versions of a particularly atrocious example.

So let us get this over with, and if you don't like it, complain to Lieut. Charles Taylor, RCN.

An American couple were on vacation in Spain with their one-year-old son and they were involved in a car accident which resulted in the death of the parents. The infant was found by a wandering band of Basques who subsequently raised it. The Basques brought the boy up in their village and, later, sent him to America to be educated.

The boy went on to become a fabulously wealthy industrialist. After making his millions he decided that he would take a trip back to Spain to visit the Basque people who raised him.

There was great rejoicing at his return and the wealthy young man told them that as a mark of his gratitude for raising him, he would give them anything they desired. The Basques finally decided that what they wanted most of all was a movie theatre, so the young man sent to America for the greatest architects to design this building. When completed it was the most up-to-date theatre in the world. There was only one peculiar thing about its design—there was only one door in the building.

Anyway, there was a gala opening. All the Basque women received enormous boxes of chocolates while the men were given cigars as they entered. However, during the show there was a fire and in the rush to get out of the theatre the entire audience was trampled to death.

The moral of this story is:

Don't put all your Basques in one exit!

LETTERS TO DRIVERS

(In this column the Times presents letters from and to drivers about careless, discourteous or reckless infractions of driving rules. When you see one, just send in the place, date and time, and what happened.)

Today's beefs:

Jan. 4, 11.30 p.m., corner Government and Belleville, where there is a special green arrow light for right turns against the main red light. The green arrow was off when myself and two friends stepped off curb to cross on the pedestrian green light. But a bakery truck flashed around the corner in front of us, completely disregarding the fact the turning arrow was not showing.

At Cook and Fort, about 8 a.m. Monday, a large cream colored Buick was following the centre lane on Cook when suddenly the driver stuck out his arm, swung out of the centre lane, and turned right onto Fort. In so doing he blocked a stream of cars travelling behind on Cook, and if the foremost car had not pulled up sharply there would have been a collision.—C.W.N.

I was driving south on Douglas approaching Herald when a woman pedestrian, looking back over her shoulder and waving goodbye to a friend, darted into the street several yards from the crosswalk and trotted diagonally across the street. Fortunately I was driving slowly enough to stop in time, but the woman never did turn her head to see if any traffic was coming.—C.R.

Q.—I recently heard over the radio that the Johnson Street bridge was opened officially in 1922. There seems to be a mistake here. I visited Victoria in November, 1923, and I walked from Esquimalt to Victoria by way of Johnson Street. They were working on the bridge at that time and there were only two widths of planks to walk over by but no way of getting vehicles across. Please state when it was actually opened to all traffic.—L.M.S.

A.—The records make it plain your memory is confused. A descriptive item on page 9 of The Victoria Daily Times of Oct. 3, 1922, read in part: "The vehicular and foot section of the new Johnson Street bridge was declared open yesterday afternoon by Mayor Marchant and the first of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway trains used the new bascule when the up-Island regular train crossed over the bridge at 5.40 o'clock. His Worship broke a bottle of champagne on the concrete counter-balance." It was explained that until the railway section was built in the spring the trains could use the rails on the completed vehicular and foot section.

Here Are a Few Suggestions For That 'Evening at Home'

By PENNY SAVER

Is this the evening you plan to spend at home? And just what do you plan to do on this "leisurely" evening in? Watch TV . . . read . . . sew . . . sleep? How about that overflowing box of snapshots, photographs and programs you've pushed away into a corner of the wardrobe? This would be a good time to put them where they belong—in an album. Gather up your materials, and let's go!

First, here's the spacious album, bound in mock leather. Which color do your prefer? There's a wide selection of shades. You can pay almost any price, up to $10 or $15 for a photo album, but you may also buy one of these at just $1.59.

Your next item is a package or box of photo corners. To suit your own tastes, there are black, gold, red or silver corners to hold the pictures and cards neatly in place. For 300 in a package you pay 25 cents. Other smaller packages are 10 and 15 cents. The next thing is to find a wide and empty space, on the living room floor or on a large table, for the sorting. It's really an enjoyable way to spend an evening, and before long you'll find yourself laughing over almost-forgotten incidents recalled through the pictures or programs. Besides filling the evening, you've cleaned out a corner of your wardrobe as well! So, it turns out to be a constructive few hours, after all.

No doubt, some who read this far will have a smug expression by now. So . . . your pictures are already put away neatly in albums! So you have one up on us!

Well, you could probably spend time on kitchen or pantry cupboards if your energetic enough. What home hasn't at least one cupboard that becomes the store closet of a miscellanea of things? Shelves in your pantry can be tidied and re-lined, and the job will prove to be very satisfying, for the new washable and water-resistant shelf paper makes it necessary to do the job less often than before.

In solid colors or varied colors in modern designs, the amazingly hard, smooth plasti-chrome finish is long wearing and resists stains. It may be wiped clean with a damp cloth in a jiffy. Plain white, in 13-inch by 25-foot rolls costs 25 cents. For 49 cents, you buy 21 feet of 13-inch paper, patterned. Shelf lining paper with decorative edging covers the entire depth of even your deepest shelves. In many patterns and favorite colors, it sells at 49 cents for 15 feet.

There now, your evening is laid out for you. What's that? . . . you've decided to go out after all . . . !

SHOULD A PROFEFSSOR ENTERTAIN FOR A NEW DEAN?

A new dean, who recently came to our college, is younger than most of the professors and teaching staff. What is the protocol in entertaining for this newcomer? Is it up to to a professor who is considerably older and who has been at the college for a number of years to give a party for this younger man and his wife? Or wouldn't it be correct because of age and years of service?

Louise

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

Age, position and years of experience is no criterion in a case like this. Supposing everyone on the faculty is older than the new young dean. If one goes by age, the newcomer would then seemingly get the cold shoulder, for he would not be entertained at all. Here is a stranger in your midst who might be a delightful addition to the college and to the community. Why not then welcome him and his wife with open arms and with genuine hospitality? A college president and his wife often entertain for a new dean, so why should it be beneath the dignity of a distinguished professor and his wife to do the same? A professorial community is no different than any other "closed corporation" when a stranger arrives on the scene. Entertaining for him is not a case of pocketing pride either. It is a hospitable, thoughtful and friendly gesture of welcome for a young man who can't help it that he is younger than the others and that he has accepted a new position in a college.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Would you like to look from five to 10 years younger at the end of eight weeks? This isn't something I am dreaming up, but an entirely possible goal to shoot for. I have seen it happen over and over again in my classes and thousands of letters from readers tell of their success.

I am talking about my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon which I offer to my readers in January of each year. Eight weeks is such a short time that anyone can stick to a routine for that long, yet it is long enough to lose 20 pounds and minimize or lose completely, any defects in beauty you may have. You actually can look like a different person just eight weeks from now.

Remember that the first two weeks are the hardest part of any diet or exercise program. After the first week you will find your routine easier. After two weeks you will be over the hump.

INCLUDE EXERCISE

Unless there is some reason for not doing so, exercise should be a part of your reducing or self-improvement program. This tones while the pounds drop off, and it speeds the loss in inches as well as in weight. Not only that, but there are such wonderful by-products. Many women who exercise with figure improvement their only goal find that stiff joints disappear, constipation becomes a thing of the past and they have much more energy than before.

You should ask your doctor to check your heart and blood pressure before beginning exercise and should follow his advice in this matter, but if he gives you the green light, make it a part of your self-improvement routine.

If you are overweight generally you will have to count calories, but if you are the correct weight you can lose, by exercise, inches in some measurement which is too large. You also can increase proportions through exercise.

Today I want to give you two easy ones. Do not be fooled because they seem simple. They are most effective.

1. Stand with your left side toward the wall. Extend left arm so fingers touch the wall. Raise your right arm up by your right ear. Hold it there while you bend, touching the fingertips of your right hand to the wall. Raise your trunk, arm still by ear. Continue. You should be far enough away from the wall to feel a good pull at the waist when you bend your trunk toward the wall. After a while turn your right side toward the wall, raise your left arm up by your ear and continue.

2. Lie on the floor on your back. Arms rest on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen and grasp the knees with your hands. Return legs and arms to the floor and continue.

If you would like to join my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon to see how much you can improve your appearance in eight weeks' time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Increased Attractiveness Will Improve Your Outlook."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep a few bottles of table and dessert wines handy to add that special touch to a family meal. Store corked bottles on their side so corks will remain moist and tight.

Add a personal touch to your favorite cake mix by baking it in a fancy mold. Give more glamor by spreading it with a sour cream-walnut frosting. Keep four and eight-ounce vacuum-packed tins of golden walnuts on hand for instant use.

Brighten a winter menu with a relish tray of crisp raw cauliflower and celery, handsome ripe olives and whole spiced canned cling peaches.

Enjoy corned beef hash at a moment's notice. Add two tablespoons new moisture-free instant minced onion to a package of instant mashed potatoes; cook according to label directions. Then add one egg and a can of corned beef. Shape into patties and fry in butter or bacon drippings until golden brown.

TODAY'S RECIPE

WALDORF SALAD

Half cup light or dark raisins, 2 cups diced apple, 1 cup diced celery, ½ cup coarsely broken walnuts, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons orange juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, lettuce.

Rinse and drain raisins. Combine apple, celery, raisins and walnuts. Blend together mayonnaise, orange juice, salt and sugar. Pour over apple mixture and toss together lightly. Serve in lettuce cups. Makes four to six servings.

Dior Allows Relaxed Curves In 1930-Inspired Stylings

NEW YORK (AP) — Christian Dior, the Frenchman who loves to upset applecarts, turns from his native land to the America of the 1930s for the apparent inspiration for his 1957 spring collection.

His models walk with the debutante slouch of the period. They wear deep helmet hats with white linen bands. They slink and switch in the manner of Auntie Mame. And their skirts are not a bit longer than those of last season.

Visiting fashion editors halfway through the crowded schedule of this week's spring style previews got up early to have breakfast in Dior's chase Fifth Avenue salon this morning and to wait with bated breath to see if the high mogul of fashion would require women to wear ankle-length skirts or abolish their bosoms this season.

He did neither. After upsetting the entire New York garment industry with prophecies of long skirts, Dior (with a sly chuckle, no doubt) showed daytime skirts at exactly the same length as those of last fall, the only longer ones being in cocktail and dinner dresses, whose length always has been variable anyway.

Busts are in their proper place and proportion, and models even are allowed to have hips this time.

SHOW RELAXED LINES

The general impression of the Dior American collection is one of well-bred ease, with relaxed curving lines in what he calls the "lyre" silhouette, much like his "magnet line" of last year, consisting of a curved bodice set atop a curved skirt, the curves, naturally, being at bust and hipline.

Shoulders and sleeves are rounded, too, and the pegged top of skirts allows room for a slight bulge, such as most women have just below the belt.

Ideal Life For Artist In Sanitarium

CALGARY (CP)—A woman artist who has a painting in the National Art Gallery of Canada, Janet Mitchell says that a stay in a sanatorium can be beneficial in many ways.

Allowed to paint after spending months in the Baker Sanitorium, which she is leaving soon, she said in an interview: "This is the ideal life for an artist. No dishes to wash. No meals to get. No office to go to every day. Nothing to do but rest and paint."

Miss Mitchell works with both oils and watercolors. "I'll be glad to get home," she said, "but I hope I can retain the feeling of peace and patience that I have acquired here.

NO HURRY

"I used to rush around, going here and there, doing things I didn't need to. I never had time to paint when I wasn't tired.

"Being out here, I've been able to catch up with myself. It's a good life, really. The only thing missing is the necessary stimulus to paint . . . things like music, conversation and other painters, and being able to study other artists' work."

For some months after entering the sanatorium she was not allowed to paint at all. Last April the doctors permitted her to take up her brushes again for work in watercolors.

"Between April and September I did more than 100 watercolors," she said. "Now, I can work in oils too, of course."

Besides having had a one-man show in Ottawa in December, Miss Mitchell has 20 watercolors in Toronto on loan to the Picture Loan Society, and was invited to send some of her work for the Christmas sale of paintings in Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Resources, Wheat Control Proposed

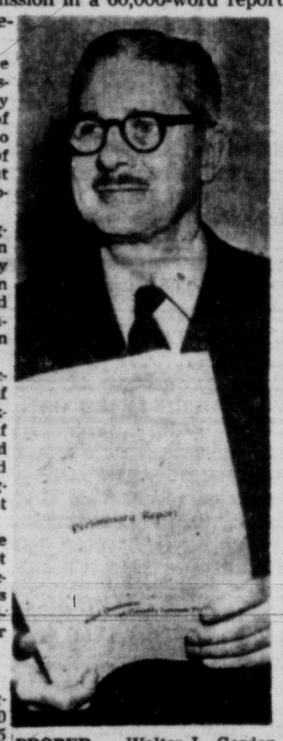
Gordon Commission Report Sees Bright Overall Future for Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Broad federal measures to increase Canadian control over the export of vital resources and means of coping with a chronic wheat surplus were proposed by the Gordon commission in a 60,000-word report studded with optimistic forecasts of Canada's future.



PROBER — Walter L. Gordon, noted, accountant, was photographed at Ottawa this afternoon as the government released his Royal Commission's survey of Canada's economic future. (AP Wirephoto.)

The report, made public by the government today, proposed establishment of a national energy authority to regulate exports of oil, gas and hydro power. It also suggested a federal system of export permits on the shipment of mineral ores and semi-processed metals.

Coupled with these were suggestions for reducing foreign ownership of Canadian industry and urging that steps be taken to prevent Canada's chartered banks and life insurance companies from falling into foreign hands.

The 140-page preliminary document, product of 18 months of investigation, painted an extremely optimistic picture of Canada's future but expressed concern over the depressed Maritimes economy and suggested broad federal aid for that area.

Backing prospects that there will be no global nuclear war, it estimated that national production will triple in the 25 years of 1955-80 and that living standards will rise by about 75 per cent.

NEAR DOUBLE BY 1980

Canada's population, it suggested, might rise to 26,500,000 in 1980 from 15,575,000 in 1955 with urban areas absorbing 79 per cent compared with 62 in the base year.

The labor force was estimated to rise to 9,000,000 from 5,500,000, producing a total of $76,000,000,000 in goods and services, up from $25,500,000,000 in 1955.

Net earnings of workers may rise by about 75 per cent on the basis of 1955 dollars, the five-man commission, headed by Toronto accountant Walter Gordon, predicted.

While the report was generally optimistic, it forecast a reduction in the importance of agriculture in Canada's over-all production, down to six per cent of the total in 1980 from 13 per cent in 1955.

The Canadian production and use of coal was likely to decline while manpower in the fishing industry also would drop though the industry's production might increase by some 60 per cent bringing higher earnings to those who remain.

HIGHLIGHTS

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of recommendations made by the Gordon economic commission in its report to the government today:

Establishment of a national energy authority to regulate exports of oil, gas, hydro-electric and other power sources.

Encourage exports of hydro-electric power in certain circumstances.

Control of wheat surpluses through establishment of annual marketing quotas by Canadian Wheat Board; farmers to be paid for farm-held wheat within marketing quota.

Hold present tariff line but maintain continuing re-examination of tariffs to achieve simplicity and flexibility.

Set up system of export controls on minerals and metals through federal export permits.

Provide broad economic aid for Atlantic provinces.

Institute broad and comprehensive scheme for better system of land use.

Present method of computing depreciation allowances for oil and gas industries should be changed.

Manufacturers should be allowed faster write-offs for tax purposes on factory buildings and equipment.

Short-run solution of railways' problems may involve federal subsidies in lieu of increase in grain freight rates.

Encourage reduction of foreign control of Canadian industries—

Municipal revenue needs may be met by annual tax on automobiles and increases in property tax.

Tempers Flare Up At City Council

Tempers flared at a special meeting of City Council this afternoon as Ald. Don Smith charged Mayor Percy Scurrah with premeditation in returning the trade licence issue to committee.

The mayor twice ordered him to "sit down."

Minutes later the mayor ruled the meeting become an "in camera" session for discussion of action on civic wage demands which now total $237,000.

Upper Island Snow-Covered

NANAIMO (CP) — Upper Vancouver Island was blanketed in new snow today in depths from five inches in Nanaimo to eight inches in the Alberni Valley and 10 inches in the Courtenay district.

The Albernis were hardest hit by the overnight storm as schools were closed and telephone and telegraph services with Nanaimo was disrupted for a time.

Despite the heavy fall of snow traffic moved near normal and no serious accidents were reported.

Lions Get 'Big' QB

VANCOUVER (CP) — A "Big Name" quarterback has been signed by the B.C. Lions, club president Don Mackenzie said today, but his name won't be released until April.

50 More Laid Off

TRAIL (CP)—Another 50 employees were laid off today by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. here as the CPR firemen's strike continued to slow down production of the huge lead and zinc smelter.

The number of layoffs, now at 350 in Cominco operations, will reach more than 3,000 here by Monday if the strike continues, a company official said.

New Plant Razed

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Firemen fought a losing battle in bitter 13-below-zero temperatures early today as a fire turned the Jeffries Concrete Products (Lethbridge) Ltd. plant into a mass of twisted steel.

The $350,000 plant, which opened for operations Oct. 1, was destroyed in the blaze which was fought by 36 firemen from two fire stations for nearly four hours.

$50 Million Arts Fund Law Ready

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary stage was set by the government today for introduction of legislation to set up a Canada Council to promote the arts and establish a $50,000,000 fund to aid universities.

There was no discussion in the Commons on a government resolution providing for establishment of the council, which is to be given $50,000,000 to encourage the arts, humanities and social sciences.

The council also will establisn a $50,000,000 university capital grants fund out of which monies will be distributed to universities through the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

Legislation embodying the two proposals will be introduced in the Commons later.

NEW PRIME MINISTER ARRIVES AT PALACE

Harold Macmillan arrives at Buckingham Palace today (at 5.45 a.m. Victoria time) to receive from Queen Elizabeth his appointment as prime minister, succeeding Sir Anthony Eden. (AP wirephoto via radio from London)

No Immediate Election Says New British PM

LONDON (AP)—Harold Macmillan, in his first speech as prime minister, said tonight he expects to complete forming a government in a few days.

In a recorded broadcast, Macmillan appealed for united support. "We have a difficult task before us. It will need all our courage and strength and it will need the sympathy and understanding of every one in the country, whatever their party or beliefs."

Macmillan paid tribute to "my old and very dear friend Anthony Eden" and said:

"For many years he has given himself to the people of this country. Now the years of hard work and endeavor have taken their toll of his health and strength. He has felt unable to continue. I am sure you will join with me in wishing him well."

LONDON (Reuters) — Harold Macmillan, staunch defender of Britain's Suez policy, today succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister.

The change in government followed Eden's announcement Wednesday night that he was giving up office because of ill health.

After receiving his new appointment from the Queen at Buckingham Palace, Macmillan ruled out the possibility of an immediate general election.

This was called for Wednesday night by Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, who is on a tour in the United States.

Macmillan's appointment caught Londoners by surprise. Spectators at the Palace thought Butler was arriving. As his car came closer they said, "Oh, it's Macmillan."

Macmillan, chancellor of the exchequer in the Eden cabinet, told reporters at 10 Downing Street when asked if there would be a general election:

"No. When there is one, we will win it."

In May, 1955, six weeks after Eden took office, the Conservative party won a mandate from the electorate for a five-year term.

Politicians interpreted Macmillan's appointment as a sign that the government leadership will continue to defend the Anglo-French armed intervention in Egypt.

It touched off speculation that Macmillan will seek a quick meeting with President Eisenhower, probably in Washington.

Macmillan also faces the job of strengthening Commonwealth bonds strained by Eden's Middle East policies.

Finally, he must cope with an economic crisis heightened by the British-French military intervention in Egypt and the closing of the Suez Canal.

Butler's Future Role Uncertain

Macmillan, who will be 63 next month, has been in active politics for 33 years and has occupied many ministerial posts including that of foreign secretary for a short time before becoming chancellor of the exchequer.

There was no immediate indication whether Macmillan would ask R. A. Butler, one of the most experienced ministers in the Conservative party, to remain in the government.

Butler, whom many politicians overnight had figured as Eden's successor, is lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons.

The choice of Macmillan is a disappointment to the more liberal-minded elements. They regard Butler as a more progressive figure capable of keeping party policy abreast of 20th-century changes in outlook.

There have been strong reports that Butler, inside the cabinet, opposed the Eden policy of armed action in Egypt.

On the other hand politicians have no doubts about the "true blue" orthodox conservatism of Macmillan, product of Eton College, ex-Guards officer and biting critic of socialism.

Today Butler was one of the first to go to Downing Street to congratulate the new prime minister.

He told reporters on the way: "I wish Mr. Macmillan the greatest possible success."

Asked about his own future, he said: "I have no plans as yet."

Of Eden, he said: "I have been deeply anxious over his health, and I hope he makes a complete recovery very soon."

The Queen, before announcing her choice, called in Sir Winston Churchill and the Marquess of Salisbury, two of the ranking Conservative leaders. They likely recommended Macmillan over Butler.

(In British tradition, the outgoing prime minister usually recommends his successor to the Queen, so that it is assumed Sir Anthony recommended Mr. Macmillan.)

The bushy-moustached new premier is the son of a Scottish father and an American mother and is head of the publishing house which bears his name.

As treasury chief during the Suez crisis, he increased the gasoline tax, called for tighter economic measures and threatened an income tax increase.

A choice of the Conservative party's right wing, the new premier is married to Lady Dorothy Cavendish, daughter of the ninth Duke of Devonshire. They have four children.

Macmillan, who went to Canada in 1919 as aide-de-camp to

End-Strike Plan Pressed By St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—New conferences on the CPR firemen's strike will be held tonight between government and union officials, it was learned late today.

Indications were that the conferees would be Labor Minister Gregg, President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress and perhaps Frank H. Hall of Montreal, negotiating chief for non-operating unions on the railway.

There was some prospect that Prime Minister St. Laurent also might meet the labor men.

OTTAWA (CP) — An immediate and temporary settlement of the CPR firemen's strike followed by a government-sponsored inquiry is being passed upon the disputants by the government, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

The temporary settlement would be about the same as that reached by the CNR with its firemen last year, the prime minister told the Commons.

The CNR gave its employees staggered wage increases totalling 11 per cent and dropped a proposal similar to the CPR's for reducing the number of firemen in its diesel locomotive operations.

The government's proposal followed along the lines of one made by the Canadian Labor Congress last weekend, except that the inquiry body would be independent while the CLC's idea was that union and management would be represented on it.

FINDINGS NOT BINDING

The prime minister indicated the findings of his proposed board would not be formally binding, though he suggested they would constitute some form of "obligation" on the disputants.

Mr. St. Laurent said he is convinced the only issue now is whether there should be a contractual undertaking to accept the board's findings.

"The objection of the union is that this is tantamount to their acceptance of compulsory arbitration," he said. "The objection

IKE WARNS U.S.

Isolation Invites War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that U.S. prosperity is at "an unprecented peak." But, referring to the danger of Communist aggression, he said "a strongly armed imperialistic dictatorship poses a continuing threat" to the free world.

In his State of the Union message, prepared for a joint Senate-House of Representatives session, the president said that "at no time in the history of the republic have circumstances more emphatically underscored the need in all echelons of government, for vision and wisdom and resolution."

Eisenhower said, "America alone and isolated cannot assure even its own security."

He added the United States "must be joined by the capability and resolution of nations that have proved themselves dependable defenders of freedom." Isolation from such nations would invite war.

In the foreign field, Eisenhower said the United States is "willing to enter any reliable agreement which would reverse the trend toward ever more devastating nuclear weapons."

Dulles Opposes Slowdown on Mid-East Plan

Criticizes Efforts of Democrats To Stall Force-for-Peace Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said Wednesday the proposed Democratic substitute for the administration's Middle East program wouldn't do the job.

He said it would fail to grant President Eisenhower "any authority" for the use of armed forces to protect a Middle Eastern state against Communist armed attack.

Dulles made an assault on the "short term" resolution which was passed along by Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem., Tex.) of the House of Representatives as the work of a prominent Democrat Rayburn would not identify.

The secretary's criticism came shortly after Senator W. Kerr Scott (Dem., N.C.) told the Senate that Dulles — whom Scott described as "the champion quick-change artist when it comes to diplomacy"—should resign in the interests of national security.

"If the president expects to keep his country on an even keel in foreign affairs," Scott said, "then he must have a secretary of state who generates confidence instead of confusion."

Scott linked his criticism to President Eisenhower's proposal, pushed by Dulles, that Congress authorize the President to use American armed forces if necessary to block Communist aggression in the Middle East.

The substitute proposal would say this instead: "The United States regards as vital to her interest the preservation of the independence and integrity of the Middle East and, if necessary, will use her armed forces to that end."

Dulles testified before the House foreign affairs committee. Some information on his testimony was given out immediately afterward. Early Wednesday night the state department released its own account.

Dulles said the Democratic proposal "could be interpreted" as designed to establish a United States "protectorate" over the Middle East without regard to the wishes of the countries themselves "and as such it might well be resented in the area."

The Democratic resolution "would not limit" the use of U.S. forces in the Middle East to "defence against armed attack, which under Article 51 of the United Nations charter is the basis for collective self-defence."

COVERS ALL ATTACKS

He said the resolution "seems to call for United States armed action to preserve the integrity of all the Middle East states not merely against a Communist attack but against any external attack." For this reason, Dulles asserted, the resolution—had it been in force—might have required American military intervention "in the fighting which occurred last year." Presumably he referred to the attacks on Egypt by Israel, Britain and France.

The Democratic resolution "would seem to call for military action to overthrow a regime brought into power from without even though no violence were used." Dulles said this raised the question of the conformity of such action with U.S. obligations under the UN charter.

Hanna Entry Plea Rejected By Pickersgill

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill said today he knows of no reason for giving special consideration to an application for entry to Canada from a man marooned aboard a Norwegian freighter currently visiting Vancouver Island.

He referred in the Commons to Christain Hanna, who has spent the last 15 months aboard the freighter Gudveig because no country will accept him as an immigrant.

Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Esquimalt-Saanich) asked why Canada has refused admission to the "unfortunate young man."

Mr. Pickersgill said Hanna is "in no way admissible" under the Immigration Act. At least four or five requirements of the act would have to be set aside to let him in.

Hanna has no known nationality, apparently one of the main reasons no country will allow him entry.

Mr. Pickersgill, without going into detail, said that from the man's past record he thinks "it is very unlikely that he will spend the rest of his life in any one place."

Persons in much worse circumstances than Hanna had been refused admittance to Canada because of requirements in the Immigration Act. Hanna's admittance "can certainly not be justified on any merits that I can see."

The home has been vacant since before Christmas.

2 Years in Jail For Possessing Burglary Tools

Frank Ellis, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to two years in jail after his conviction earlier this week on a charge of possessing housebreaking tools.

He was arrested in the yard of a local bottling works late one night last week, with a screwdriver and gloves on his person. He had climbed a high fence to gain access to the property, police said.

Condition of Dean McKinnon, 1547 Yale, injured when the car in which he was riding turned over on a slippery Saanich street shortly after 8 a.m. today, is good, St. Joseph's Hospital reported at 1 p.m.

Nature of his injury or whether he was driving the car was not available.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS IRREGULARITIES

Insurance Policy on Sculptor Not Security—Auditor-General

OTTAWA (CP) — Auditor-General Watson Sellar has uncovered another crop of irregularities in government accounts but on the whole he finds the books in good order.

The public accounts for the 1955-56 fiscal year were tabled in the Commons Wednesday and they include Mr. Sellar's report, which states at the beginning: "Thousands upon thousands of transactions were reviewed and it is satisfying to be able to report that only a handful require notice to be now taken of them."

Among this handful:

1. The government insured the life of sculptor Frances Loring for $10,000—it paid the $1,126 premium—while she was working on the $50,000 statue of former Conservative Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden, unveiled here Monday. The works department took out the policy under the section calling for sufficient security to be taken by the government until a contract is finished. Mr. Sellar says a life insurance policy is hardly security and that the premium was not deductible from the contract.

2. Six years ago, the defence department decided to instal underground steam distribution systems at 30 camps. Major repairs have since been necessary at 14 of these stations, chiefly because of faulty design. Original contracts at the 14 camps were worth $6,000,000 and estimated cost of repairs came to $1,218,500.

3. In 1954, navy officers, without authorization from the defence production department, encouraged a manufacturer to spend money to develop a boat davit. The defence department later instructed defence production to buy the type of davits developed, but the firm was not the successful bidder. It sought compensation and the government now has offered to pay the firm $34,000, including five-per-cent profit.

4. A civil servant signed an agreement to return to his job after being given leave to attend university. He didn't honor the agreement but was paid $8,000 half salary for his three years at college, was reimbursed his $1,644 contribution to the superannuation account and given $858 in lieu of retirement leave.

CONSIDERED RIGHT-WINGER BY LABOR

New British Prime Minister Self-Styled 'Liberal-Tory'

LONDON (CP) — Harold Macmillan is a cartoonist's delight with his sad and drooping eyes and his large grizzled moustache.

He calls himself "Liberal Tory." The Labor party considers him an extreme right-winger. In the years between the world wars he was a vigorous advocate of social reform.

Macmillan is a product of Eton and Oxford's Balliol College. He knows Latin, Greek and French in addition to his free-flowing and sometimes Churchillian English and has what he calls a "smattering" of other languages.

A Grenadier guardsman in the First World War, he was wounded three times. Waiting for 12 hours once on a French battlefield for first aid, he passed the time reading a play in Greek.

In the Second World War he was for three years British minister-resident in the Mediterranean theatre.

He was born in 1894. His mother was an American, daughter of J. Carleton Belles of Spencer, Ind.

In 1919 he went to Canada as aide-de-camp to the Duke of Devonshire, then governor-general. The next year he married the duke's daughter, Lady Dorothy Cavendish.

Macmillan then became a director of the publishing firm which bears his family name.

He won his first seat in the House of Commons in 1923, lost it in 1929, then represented his constituency from 1931 onwards.

As wartime minister-resident in the Mediterranean theatre, he was credited with doing much to smooth out jealousies among the French leaders, and establishing good relations with United States forces. He worked with Gen. Eisenhower when the latter commanded allied forces in North Africa.

He has held various posts since the Conservative government came to power in 1951. He was made foreign secretary in April, 1955, and chancellor of the exchequer the following December. His party acclaimed him most when as minister of housing from 1951 to 1954 he put through the government's program of building 300,000 houses a year.

In 1953 he underwent a gall bladder operation from which he made a speedy recovery.

Diehard Conservatives of the old school have always mistrusted him, for he is an intellectual, a political philosopher who has written books on his theories.

. . . MACMILLAN

the Duke of Devonshire, then governor-general, travelled to Buckingham Palace this afternoon to receive the Queen's designation of him as her first minister.

GUESSED WRONG

About 200 persons pressing against the railings of the palace seemed surprised when Macmillan's car wheeled into the courtyard. A few seeing the car coming toward the palace had shouted: "Here comes Butler." Then as the car came closer they gasped: "Oh, its Macmillan."

Macmillan showed no emotion as he reached the palace. He sat in the front seat of a small black car with the driver.

Buckingham Palace announced: "The Queen received the Right Hon. Harold Macmillan MP in audience this afternoon and offered him the post of prime minister and first lord of the treasury.

"Mr. Macmillan accepted Her Majesty's offer and kissed hands upon his appointment."

Macmillan spent 20 minutes in the palace.

The phrase "kissed hands" referred to the ceremonial acceptance by Macmillan of the Queen's command.

Churchill has called him a "man of fearless intelligence." They worked together against Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler and Mussolini, and Churchill in the Second World War appointed him secretary of the minstry of supply. There he helped build Britain's great war arsenal. Later he was in the colonial ministry.

DIETING IS A LAUGH

The Fat Boys Resented Me

(This is the fourth of a series of five articles by the well-known motion picture, television and night club comedian, Jack Leonard. In these articles Mr. Leonard reveals how he reduced his weight from 330 pounds to 205—a weight loss of 125 pounds—by dieting.)

By JACK LEONARD

I won the Battle of the Body Bulge singlehanded. Don't get me wrong. I'm no hero. One of my favorite gags is that I tried to get out of Selective Service on the grounds that I was a devout coward. But if you want to feel like a hero—reduce.

You'll get the same feeling if you lose five or ten pounds as I got losing 125. It's wonderful to discover that humans are shrinkable. Who wouldn't shrink on the diet I was on?

I have a battle log. When I got to the doctor last November (1955) I weighed 329½. I'd taken off about ten pounds before that through sheer agony but chances were if I hadn't gone to a doctor I'd have lost my mind before I lost any pounds.

Well, by the end of December I was down to 303—twenty-six and a half pounds gone. Not bad for a beginner.

For January it was 292, a drop of eleven. February I hit 275, seventeen gone. March I was 261, fourteen less. April it was 244—seventeen gone. May was 229, fifteen dropped. June 215—fourteen gone. July I hit 204—a grand total of 125½ dropped. Since then it's been give and take a pound here or there. The important thing for me, the doctor says, is to stay under 210.

A lot of wise guys say, "Sure—it's easy for a fat boy like you to lose weight—it's not so easy for a person who's just overweight to do it." Well, the way the doctor explained it to me, it's a relative thing. Take me. Weighing 335 I needed over 3,600 calories a day just to keep that weight up. Put me on a 1,200 calorie diet and I'm getting a third of what I needed for that weight. Put a normal person who needs about 2,400 calories a day on a 1,200 diet and he's getting half what he needs. So maybe in the long run—or the early part of the run, rather—I'll lose weight faster—but remember, I have a lot more losing to do.

FINDS "FATTIES" RESENTFUL

It's the fatties, in fact, who make dieting really tough.

They're the hecklers. I met a guy the other day, weighing about 270 pounds, and he said, "Jack, you look like you need a good meal." I said, "I had thirty years of good meals—and now I'm going to live to enjoy them."

The fat guys resent you. There I was, at 240, proud of shaving off ninety pounds, and this pal says, "Better go on a diet. That's too much for you to carry around." Then there are the wise guys who send you a strawberry shortcake with their compliments, or boxes of candy.

But I can take those hecklers. I learned the hard way. For years I walked around with 330 or 340 pounds, take or leave it, and I'd never leave anything that was edible. But when you get past the forty mark, it really catches up with you. You start to ache all over and it gets tougher to get out of bed, it gets tougher to walk, everything gets tougher. I was always a very active fellow, a good athlete in my youth, with a big bone structure, and I could carry the load. But as the years go on, something has to go — and it was almost me. At the rate I was going, I would have had a whole cemetery all to myself.

So I knuckled down and my wife pitched in. And looking back, I guess my wife was the real hero of that war.

(In the final article of this series, appearing Friday Jack Leonard enumerates the temptations that beset the path of the dieter.)

of the railway to that not being a contractual undertaking now in that, if they do not make it a contractual undertaking, the dispute could start all over again.

"I have been urging that this is not a realistic view to take. If there is a thorough investigation and report, neither side is going to attempt after that to hold out on an obligation that will have been recommended after a full investigation by a board that would be constituted in such a way as to have considerable prestige with Canadian public opinion."

CPR President N. R. Crump commented:

"I am told the prime minister . . . described as unrealistic the view that an investigation by a board whose findings would not be binding would leave the diesel issue open to a new strike.

"However, I am glad to note the prime minister's view that no strike would be possible on the diesel issue after the findings of the board of inquiry."

Mr. Crump said that up to early afternoon he had not been in touch either with the government or the striking union.

Frank H. Hall of Montreal, chairman of the general conference committee representing 124,000 employees of the major railways, expressed satisfaction with the government plan.

"If a settlement can be reached along the lines outlined by the prime minister," he said, "I think all concerned should be congratulated. It will be a good thing for all the CPR employees and for the country."

Mr. St. Laurent in reply to questions from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, said that the board proposed by the government could be set up in various ways.

It could be constituted under the federal labor code, or there could be a royal commission.

'Hold-Line' Policy Urged on City Works

New chairman of city council's public works committee, Ald. M. H. Mooney, today proposed a schedule of strict maintenance for roads, drains and sewers in 1957 with a minimum of expansion.

He said he will follow the policy adopted last year of gradual renewal of all works services.

"No widespread programs of new development should be undertaken," he stated.

"We are now engaged in road, sewer and drain depreciation replacement programs. Residents will have to understand that in time all neighborhoods will benefit from it."

The alderman issued a statement listing his opinions on various items of civic business which are bound to come up this year.

TELL THE PEOPLE

He said each alderman should take opportunity to explain his stand each year, as an account of his stewardship to the people who elected him. (In Esquimalt and Oak Bay, councillors each address ratepayers at annual election meetings. But in the city, by custom, only the mayor gives an inaugural address.)

Ald. Mooney favors a pay-as-you-go policy and further cutting of the per capita debt.

"I want to see Point Ellice Bridge constructed as soon as possible, logging of special sections of Thetis Lake Park and use of the monies received for development of the park."

NEW CITY HALL

He wants to see more city-owned property sold and funds used for a capital expansion program including a new fire hall, city hall, garbage disposal system and repair and storage yards.

"I believe we should investigate whether there is a better way of raising tax money than the trade licence, but if we make a move I want to know in detail what other form of taxation we may use."

He promised to revive two campaigns which he fought and lost last year — a back-yard clean-up drive where city trucks would cart away unwanted junk not normally taken by garbage trucks, and institution of a new bicycle licensing system.

Under his plan only one licence would be issued to a bicycle. It would be permanent and each sale of a bike would require re-registration, but at no charge.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Third Victoria Group committee met at the home of Scouter Andy Sinclare. A paper drive was planned for Jan. 19, arrangements being made for the disposal of two truck loads. Members of the committee are arranging to move the equipment to the new meeting place on Kings Road. At a "Court of Honor" meeting of the patrol leaders it was decided to give the low patrol a whisk broom that can be attached to the patrol leaders stave to show that they are the ones that need pepping up.

Troop scouters should not forget the "Green Plume" meeting Thursday evening at headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, at 8 p.m. It is important as the first class journey of a Scout will be discussed.

* * *

SPCA Guest List

(A Times service for those seeking lost pets, and those wishing to acquire pets. Animals up for adoption at the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Shelter, 111 Wilson, can be secured for a nominal donation to the SPCA. Telephone 3-0514, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., for information.)

READY FOR ADOPTION: Six months old golden cocker cross, female, good with kids. Available because her former people hadn't enough time to spend with her.

A spayed female black collie, named Patsy; grand with children.

Duke, a 15-monld-old Labrador cross, is perfect in every way but one. He doesn't like garbage men. No reflection; it's just the noise. Keep him in on collection day, and you can't go wrong.

A kind of a sort of a Labrador is black-and-white Timmy, 10 months, male, anxious to please.

A brown and white cross collie, very friendly and good with children, is Buddy, two years old, spayed. Needs gentle companionship.

A little shy with strangers, Nipper really blossoms out when she makes friends. She's mostly border collie, a lovely little doggie, one year old.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Kathleen Six, aged 13, of Aldan, Penn., for her question:

What Is Chicory?

Imagine a daisy and a salad marching clear across our continent. That is not some fanciful idea that Alice in Wonderland dreamed up. In a way, it really happened. The chicory plant is a member of the daisy family. In Europe it is considered a salad delicacy. Chicory was introduced into North America where most people consider it a weed. Nothing daunted, this salad-daisy took the highways and the byways of the United States and Southern Canada and spread from the east coast to the west. So far, it has avoided only the deserts of the southwest.

You have certainly seen chicory decking the roadsides through the summer months. Its erect, hairy stalks stand anywhere from table level to the height of a fifth grader. Its heavenly blue flowers are round and flat as saucers. They may be one and a half inches across and the single blossoms are dotted here and there up the stiff stems. Do you remember now this wild flower that you mistook for a weed among the wild flowers?

The lower leaves of the chicory plant look like they belong to a dandelion. The French, who are wonderful cooks, relish these leaves in salads. The fleshy taproots of chicory are also eaten. They are stored and eaten as winter salads. The roots of one variety of chicory, the witloof, are boiled and eaten as buttered vegetable. This chicory is known as the French endive. And, indeed, our chicory weed is really a relative of the fancy salad endive. Animals, too, enjoy chicory. In Europe it is even grown as a fodder plant.

What a useful plant that traveling weed of ours turned out to be! But that is not all of it. The roots of chicory have a still more useful trick. They can fake, or almost fake, the flavor of coffee. For this job, the roots are gathered, cleaned, dried and chomped into powder. Chicory powder is sometimes used as a coffee substitute. In boiling water it looks, smells and tastes very like strong, bitter coffee. More often it is mixed with powdered coffee. Not only is it an inexpensive way to stretch out the coffee supply. It adds color and body to the brew. Some people say that chicory adds a bitter flavor when added to coffee. Other people like their coffee that way.

Chicory was brought to North America by Europeans who liked their coffee strong and a tang to their salads. Then it seems to have been neglected. But some of the seedlings escaped and took root in the light sandy soils along the road sides. A few farmers still cultivate it, even force its roots for endive salads. But most have forgotten it as food crop. In the meantime, year by year, the useful, pretty immigrant looked after itself. It spread and spread until now it is a familiar roadside wild flower almost everywhere.

Andy sends a Hammond Ambassador World Atlas to Richard Reichman, age 16, of Milwaukee, Wis., for his question:

Does Andy have an age limit for answering questions?

Andy gets questions from people of all ages. However, he limits his answers to certain age groups. He is most interested in the questions of young people. So far he has not answered a question for any person less than five years old or for anyone older than 16 years. So at 16 years you are just within his age limits and will be there until you reach 17.

This question gives Andy a chance to give a special reminder to his readers. Almost everyone who writes to him remembers to spell out their name. Most people also remember to write out their address in full. But so many forget to say how old they are. This is too bad. For Andy cannot select a question from some person who may be way outside his age limits. So, everybody, please remember to include the name, address and age along with that question to Andy.
